

DID NOT ENDORSE GOVERNOR HUGHES

Odell's Resolution Favoring Him For President Turned Down Owing to Odell's Enmity to Roosevelt

PRESIDENT'S STRENGTH IS DISPLAYED

New York, May 11.—A resolution endorsing Governor Hughes for the republican nomination for president, which was offered by Former Governor Odell at today's session of the republican state committee, was laid on the table by a vote of 32 to 4. Odell, George W. Dunn, member of the state railroad commission; William Halpin, state tax commissioner, and William Ten Eyck voted in favor of the resolution.

In moving that Governor Odell's motion urging the nomination of Mr. Hughes for the presidency, he tabled on account of the gentleman who introduced Chairman Woodruff, said:

"I move that this resolution be tabled on account of the gentleman who introduced it by reason of his well known antipathy to the president of the United States."

Woodruff Explains.

He added that the adoption of such an expression by the committee would place the governor in an awkward position, especially as this was no time to adopt such a resolution.

Mr. Odell took exceptions to Mr. Woodruff's statement and declared that he believed this to be a very opportune time for an expression of opinion by the republican organization of the state of New York as to its choice for the next presidential nomination. His introduction of the resolution, he declared, was without guile.

There was no further debate, and the vote was then taken, the votes against tabling being cast by Mr. Odell, state Railroad Commissioner George W. Dunn, William H. Ten Eyck, of Albany and William Halpin, of New York City, the tax commissioner of New York state. Mr. Halpin was Mr. Odell's chief lieutenant in New York City, when the

EX-CHAMPION AGAIN CALLS AT WHITE HOUSE

John L. Sullivan Seeks a Pardon for Friend—Is Coming to Indiana.

Washington, May 11.—John L. Sullivan, the pugilist, saw the president again today by appointment in behalf of John Lennon, who is serving a sentence at Governor's Island for desertion from the marine corps. He made an earnest plea to the president to pardon the young man and permit him to serve out his enlistment in the corps. The president has the application under consideration. Mr. Sullivan said the president had not made any promises.

In about two weeks Sullivan said he would leave the stage for an Indiana resort, where he will take the baths for rheumatism trouble. Some one suggested to him that he eat less beefsteak and potatoes and that milk and water was a good diet. Sullivan declared that he was not a vegetarian but liked to have the "real thing."

BIG LIGHTING SYNDICATE HAS INVADDED STATE OF INDIANA

Central Indiana Lighting Association Has Capital of $3,000,000.

Indianapolis, May 11.—A special to the News from Anderson says articles of association were filed today by the Central Indiana Lighting company, with a capital stock of $3,000,000—$2,000,000 common and $1,000,000 preferred. William M. Wherry, Jr., John W. Tobin and Ivan L. McLean, all of New York, are the incorporators.

The Central Indiana company is a branch of the National Heat, Light and Power company, of New York.

This company operating in Indiana and Illinois as the Central Light company, has acquired several plants at Taylorville, Jerseyville, Robinson, Charleston, Paris and Pana, Ill.; Lexington and Marshall, Mo.; Hoosick Falls, N. Y.; Bennington, Twin City and Brattleborough, Vt.

In Indiana the National company, through the Central Lighting company, has options on the lighting plants at Shelbyville, Columbus, Ellettsburg and Fairmont.

BIG TRAINLOAD OF STRIKEBUSTERS IN FRISCO

Attempt to Be Made Today to Make Big Movement of Street Cars.

San Francisco, May 11.—A report is in circulation that a street car has been dynamited by strikers on Sutter street.

San Francisco, May 11.—Early today a special train carrying three hundred strike breakers for the United railroads reached the city by way of San Jose over the coast division. The train was switched at Valencia street and the men were escorted under guard to the car barns at 28th and Valencia streets.

It is planned to start street cars from the United railroad barns, at Oak and Broderick streets today under a total police guard of 400 men, some of them mounted. The first attempt will be made to operate on Market street to the end of that line, at the ferry building.

Five cars were started from the Turk street barn at 10:30. All reached the junction of Eddy and Market without incident. They carried a few passengers. The cars switched back from Market to Divisadero and were sent out again over the same route.

GOVERNOR WILL RIDE AHEAD.

California Executive to See for Himself if Troops Be Needed.

San Francisco, May 11.—The efforts to run the cars today down through the burned district will furnish the additional attraction of having Governor Gillette, Adjutant J. B. Lauck and Brigadier General Wankowski present as eye witnesses of the behavior of the mob.

The police will assemble in force, and their ability to cope with any riotous demonstrations by those in sympathy with the strikers will be closely watched by the governor and the militia chiefs who will accompany him.

The governor will then be in a position to decide whether the assistance of the state soldiery is required, to supplement the efforts of the local authorities to maintain the peace.

Contest of Defiances.

The heads of the contending forces still continue to issue statements to the public. The railroad officials have put their feet down squarely, and assert that their cars will be run in the face of all opposition, while at the

ONE MORE BROTHER OF TAFT VISITS CAPITAL

Henry W. Calls at White House to See About Appointment.

Washington, May 11.—Henry W. Taft, of New York, a brother of the secretary of war, talked with the president today about the prospective vacancy on the bench of the United States circuit court for the second district to be caused by the retirement of Judge William J. Wallace. Mr. Taft said he did not come in behalf of any particular candidate but was interested in the appointment.

"I am not a politician," said Mr. Taft, when asked for his opinion about the political situation. Mr. Taft went to the war department to see his brother and later returned with the secretary to the white house remaining there for some time, discussing political matters. Mr. Taft declined to say anything for publication.

COLD WEATHER PUTS ALL IS QUIET TODAY

WHEAT MARKET UPWARD AROUND THE BIG FOUNDRY

Sudden Advance of 2 Cents in Chicago—Tries to Go to Dollar in Gotham.

John H. Bass Believes Men Will Return—Strikers Say They Will Not.

Chicago, May 11.—The violent upturn in wheat which followed the publication of yesterday's crop report by the government was continued here today. Within fifteen minutes after the opening of the board of trade the prices of all wheat options were two cents higher than the close of yesterday. Intense excitement prevailed on the board and trading was exceedingly heavy. When July wheat had touched 90 3/4c extensive realizing sales set in and the price was crowded back to 90c. The strength of the market, however, was not lessened, the urgent demand until they touched for July and September 91 1/4c and 91 3/4c respectively, both options being 2 1/2c above yesterday's close.

The continued cold weather in the west and northwest proved a strong ally of the government crop report in elevating prices. The weather bureau predicted continued cold weather to night throughout a large portion of the winter wheat belt, although higher temperatures are said to be probable by Monday.

Reports From Northwest.

Dispatches from Winnipeg were to the effect that seeding in that section of Canada was temporarily stopped and that it would not be possible to do any planting before Monday. It was stated that not over 15 per cent of the total amount of seeding has so far been done in Manitoba.

From Kansas came reports covering ninety-one counties in the state declaring that the condition of the wheat crop there was 1 1/2 cents below the government crop report. This estimate was based on statistics collected later than those on which the government report was based.

The publication of the Michigan crop report giving the condition in that state as 74 against 83 on April 1 added largely in causing the higher prices.

A renewal of the heavy realizing sales set in about 11 o'clock and prices declined 1c, July falling off to 90 3/4c and September to 90 1/4c. The general market, however, was still strong.

WHAT A LOT OF BIG HEADS THE DONS MUST HAVE

Madrid, May 11.—There was little sleep in Spain last night. The public rejoicing over the birth of an heir to the throne continued everywhere until almost morning. In the provinces the church bells were rung, there was music in the streets of the various towns, and aims were distributed to the poor. The capital was brilliantly illuminated, there was a great display of fireworks, regimental bands marching through the streets, which were thronged and the cafes were crowded until almost daylight. By the king's order a sumptuous supper was served at midnight to the troops composing the garrisons throughout Spain. Dawn was breaking when the weary crowds sought their homes.

Queen Victoria and her baby passed a satisfactory night and this morning the condition of both the mother and child was pronounced to be excellent.

COLD WEATHER AND SNOW IN STATES OF EAST

Six Inches of Snow Falls in Some Parts of New York State.

New York, May 11.—Snow and unseasonably low temperature were reported today from points in New York state and New England. At Boston and vicinity, following a night of heavy rain, there was snow early in the day sufficient to cover the ground. In the Adirondacks from three to six inches of snow had fallen the last twenty-four hours and at Rome, N. Y., there was a fall of three inches of snow and the temperature was 34 degrees. At Rochester, N. Y., the ground was white with snow. In this city there was a drop in temperature in eighteen hours of 32 degrees.

ITALY'S KING CONGRATULATES.

Rome, May 11.—King Victor Emmanuel sent a telegram to King Alfonso warmly congratulating him on the birth of an heir to the throne and expressing his most cordial wishes for the prosperity of the Spanish royal family.

STOCKHOLDERS HELD MEETING.

A meeting of the Fort Wayne King Water Heater company was held last Thursday with the largest representation of stock present in person and by proxy the company has ever held. The elections took place: President, Monroe W. Fitch; vice presidents, George E. Becker, A. N. Hanna and J. S. Graham; of Bluffton; treasurer and secretary, G. P. Essig; directors, C. E. Hadsel, Frank W. Hanna, H. H. Hilgemann and Dr. W. L. Ferguson.

TWO SMALL FIRES.

At an early hour this morning the fire department was summoned to the plant of the Western Gas Construction company to extinguish a blaze originating from an alcoholic explosion. Damage to the amount of $100 was done. A chimney fire in the roof of James Cook's residence at 535 Holman street did damage to the extent of $5 at noon today.

NEARLY SEVERED FINGER.

While operating a bread machine at the Standard club last evening Caterer Ed Longfield lost the index finger of his left hand tangled up in the machinery and sustained an extensive cut which almost severed the finger. The injury is an extremely painful one.

TIN BADGE DETECTIVE HELD ON CHARGE OF LOITERING

Laborer Takes Turn as Sleuth and Gets in Trouble—City Court.

Noah Hartman worked hard a couple of days for three large United States dollars and sent them to the Grannan Detective bureau at Cincinnati and in return got a tin badge and a book of rules permitting him to work on such cases as he was assigned to him, and yesterday he was doing a little sleuthing that mixed him up with Patroman Spillner who sent him in. This morning he was held on the charge of loitering until Monday.

Hartman is a laborer and is built on lines that would indicate his ability to hold a steady position at the swing end of a pick or a shovel but his dome of reason is not of the character that is used in the making of detectives and it is probable that when the facts are known he will be told to shed his tin badge and get back into the dirt throwing industry as he is apparently harmless. He lives at 330 Murray street and is married.

The Other Cases.

Frank O'Neil, a strike breaker, was fined $1 and costs. He had a black-jack when he was arrested at the Calverwood hotel Thursday, and after the Bass people had paid his fine yesterday morning he was arrested again and held until this morning.

Jesse Folger promised to leave the city and was given two hours to shape up his business affairs and trek.

TO ELIMINATE RED TAPE.

Postal Commission Will Try to Improve Methods.

Washington, May 11.—With the view of eliminating much red tape and simplifying the postal service in the United States an investigation of the system now in vogue is being conducted by the postal commission which was created by the last session of congress. An appropriation of $25,000 was made by congress to be expended by the commission in making its inquiry, and the postal authorities hope will result in a great improvement of present methods.

The postal commission will be assisted in its work by a bureau which has just been established in the post-office department. Expert accountants have been employed and will at once begin the work of formulating the new system under the direction of the postal commission, of which Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, is chairman.

CGES TO BERLIN UNIVERSITY.

Cambridge, Mass., May 11.—Prof. William Henry Schofield, professor of comparative literature at Harvard university, has been chosen visiting professor at the University of Berlin for the academic year 1907 and 1908. Prof. Schofield goes to the German university in exchange for a professor who comes from that institution to Harvard in accordance with a custom established three years ago.

MAY INCREASE CAPACITY.

Rolling Mill Company Contemplates Adding Seven-Inch Mill.

The Fort Wayne Rolling Mill company has under contemplation the adding of a seven-inch mill to its already big equipment, and General Manager H. C. Rockhill stated today that the matter would be definitely determined by July 1. Business has been extremely prosperous, and the addition of the seven-inch mill would add greatly to the capacity of the institution, enabling it to produce many smaller sizes of iron to much better advantage than is now possible.

STREET CAR HITS DYNAMITE.

Was Blown to Pieces By Explosive at Montgomery, Ala.

Montgomery, Ala., May 11.—A car of the Montgomery Traction company in the extreme southern edge of the city struck a stick of dynamite late last night and was completely shattered, portions of the car being blown one hundred feet from the track. The motorman and conductor, brothers, named Brunson, were slightly injured. There was only one passenger on the car, a negro, who escaped unhurt.

MR. HANNA WILL RESPOND.

Postmaster on Program for Address at Indianapolis.

Postmaster R. B. Hanna, of this city, will deliver the response to the address of welcome by Mayor C. A. Bookwalter on the occasion of the first annual meeting of the presidential postmasters of Indiana, to be held at Indianapolis May 15 and 16. The headquarters of the association will be at the Denison hotel. Mr. Hanna is also a member of the committee on permanent organization.

MR. DAFFORN'S PLAN.

Old Comrades to Be His Guests During Encampment.

William Dafforn, of Pleasant township, though not a resident of Fort Wayne, proposes to do his full share toward entertaining the veterans who come to Fort Wayne to attend the G. A. R. encampment. Mr. Dafforn served through the war as a member of the Fifteenth Indiana volunteers, and he has located seventeen of his old comrades of that company who have accepted his invitation to be his guests during the encampment. Mr. Dafforn resides near Sheldon and close to the Fort Wayne and Elkhart interurban line. He will take his guests out on the trolley line to his home each night and accompany them to the city each morning on the car during the encampment.

Columbus, Ohio, May 11.—Twelve thousand and thirty-five dollars and thirty cents were taken by unauthorized persons from the county treasury of Lorain county between September 1, 1902, and December 1, 1906, as reported today by the state examiners, J. C. Wood and A. M. Enfinger.

WOMEN WERE OVERCOME IN OPENING RUSH AT NEW STORE

Fainted in Jam of Bargain-Seekers Who Packed
the Place

Massed in the jam of bargain-hunters who attended the opening of a new five and ten cent store, on Calhoun street, this morning, half a score of women grew faint in the big crowd and had to be assisted by friends out into the open air, where they soon revived.

The crush was terrific. Long before the doors were opened there was a big crowd waiting for the event, and a very large percentage of the number were ladies, here and there a solitary man appearing in the expectant crowd. With the opening of the doors the crowd surged in and continued until the place was packed, almost to suffocation. Despite the fact that many were overcome by faintness and had to be assisted outside by friends, there was no panic and none of the cases were serious.

SOME FROST ARRIVED.

Temperature Last Night Produced May Crop of Ice.

Weather forecasts yesterday indicating frost for last night were fully verified by a drop in temperature that caused ice formation in many places about the city. The lowest point recorded by the thermometer at the Fort Wayne Gas company's office was 31 degrees above zero at 5 o'clock this morning, and warmer weather is now promised. So far as can be ascertained it is not believed the frost did extensive damage, except to tomato plants and kindred vegetation which had been left unprotected.

WILL VISIT THE EXPOSITION.

Mr. E. A. Stephens, the furrier, and wife have gone to New York to purchase skins for the fall trade and to inspect the latest popular designs in furs. Before returning they will make a trip to Jamestown by ocean steamer.

or three this morning, but could not do so. His injuries are not serious. A piece of steel was thrown through one of the windows of the old pattern shop, in which the men are quartered at the works, about 9 o'clock last night, and they scamped pell mell down the steps, but were met and persuaded to return and there was no further disturbance. It is also reported that shots were fired and that a bullet was found imbedded in an old pattern in the sleeping room of the men, but nothing definite can be obtained on this point.

The strikers insist that they are not responsible for these things and say that they are aware of the fact that they will be blamed for any acts of violence committed at the plant. The leaders are wisely counseling against any outbreak and are doing all in their power to prevent any. Patrolmen, Stevens, Murphy and Golden were kept near the plant during the day, but they had nothing to do but keep on the alert.

The officers of the company have not had a full opportunity to judge of the work of the new men, but say most of them handle themselves like experienced moulders.

ROBBED OF THEIR FLOWERS.

Several of the young ladies who appeared in the high school play last evening were the victims of some thief, who carried off the flowers presented to them at the close of the second act. The flowers lay upon the mantel during the third act, and after the dropping of the curtain the young ladies went to their rooms to pack up their clothes, and when they came back to the stage their flowers had disappeared.

CITY BREVITIES.

James Deffenbaugh, of Atlanta, Ga., is in the city visiting with his brother, Edward Deffenbaugh.

ILLINOIS MAN APPOINTED.

Washington, May 11.—The president today announced the appointment of Lawrence Y. Sherman, of Illinois, to succeed G. J. Diekmann, of Michigan, as a member of the Spanish treaty claims commission.

Mr. Sherman is now lieutenant governor of Illinois. His term would not have expired for a number of months. Mr. Diekmann has been elected to succeed William Alden Smith, of Michigan as a representative in congress.

HAD BEEN A RESIDENT OF FORT WAYNE MANY YEARS

Mrs. William C. Taylor Dies at Home of Her Daughter.

Mrs. Mahala A. Taylor, wife of William C. Taylor, and for almost fifty years a resident of Fort Wayne, died at 4:30 o'clock this morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Doswell, in Lindenwood cemetery place, at the age of 69 years, 9 months and 22 days. Death was due to kidney complaint. Mrs. Taylor had been an invalid for the past year, but it was not until a week ago that her condition became immediately alarming.

The deceased was born in Baltimore, Md., and came to Fort Wayne in 1860. She was a devoted member of Bethany Presbyterian church, and is survived by the husband and the following children: Charles E. Taylor, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Jacob M. Stouder, of this city; Mrs. John P. Hayes, of Portsmouth, N. H.; William H. Caps, Kansas City, and Mrs. Harry Doswell and Robert L. Taylor, of this city. There are fifteen grandchildren.

cussion. The position of the Taft people, from what this member of the cabinet said, is believed to be that the presidency and the senatorship in Ohio should be considered separately. Secretary Taft declined to talk on the subject.

BURTON ISSUES A DENIAL.

Says Taft Never Said Foraker Must Be Eliminated from Politics.

Cleveland, O., May 11.—Congressman Theodore Burton gave out the following statement today:

"An erroneous report has gone forth to the effect that Secretary William H. Taft has said to me by telephone that he desired the elimination of Senator Joseph B. Foraker from politics. 'He has never made any such statement. He has conscientiously refused, however, to enter into any deal under which he should have the support of the republicans for the presidency and in consideration thereof Mr. Foraker should be endorsed for the senatorship. Such an arrangement would be a political bargain and would awaken criticism because the two are supposed to represent different ideas, especially in regard to the policies of the administration of President Roosevelt."

"So far as I know none of the friends of Secretary Taft have advised or asked him to take any part in any contest for the senatorship in the state, nor has he expressed any intention to do so."

PROMOTE FAIRBANKS BOOM.

South Bend, Ind., May 11.—Fourteen editors of newspapers in this congressional district met here today to further the interests of Vice President Fairbanks for the presidency. James P. Goodrich, chairman of the republican state committee, and George Lockwood, superintendent of the Indiana republican press bureau, were present.

CITY BREVITIES.

The B. A. C. or A. will initiate a large class of candidates at Harmony hall tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. All the members of the lodge are requested to be present.

The remains of Mrs. Lizzie Shoemaker, which have been reposing in the receiving vault at Lindenwood cemetery since last fall, were interred at Lindenwood today.

Charles A. Hood returned home last evening from a western trip of sixty days which he combined business and pleasure in a visit to Portland and British Columbia cities.

Dr. James Tillotson, of Delphos, O., brought a patient to the St. Joseph hospital yesterday afternoon for a surgical operation. Dr. C. E. Barnes, of this city, assisted in the operation.

Mrs. Ada Lee, a missionary from Calcutta, India, will speak Sunday night at the First M. E. church under the auspices of the Women's Foreign Missionary society. The annual thank offering service will be held at this time.

Rev. Stafford, of New Castle, Pa., will preach trial sermons Sunday morning and evening at the Tabernacle, corner Smith street and Craigton avenue. He comes well recommended, and may be retained by the congregation.

The annual election of officers, and the anniversary supper of Ladies' Aid society of the Cavalry United Brethren church will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Roberts, 1149 Monroe street, Thursday afternoon and evening.

An annual meeting of the members of the Fort Wayne lodge of Perfection, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, will be held Tuesday night, May 21, for the purpose of the election of officers for the ensuing year. The reports of the secretary-treasurer and board of trustees will be submitted.

The pupils of the primary grades of St. Catherine's academy will give a piano recital at the school hall Monday evening May 20th. It will consist of waltzes, instrumental solos, duets, and recitations. About fifteen young ladies of the school will participate in the exercises.

David Croble, who is temporarily behind the desk at the Randall hotel during the absence of Clerk Moreland, formerly held the position, but is now one of the proprietors of the Oyster Bay at Bluffton. Mr. Moreland, who was called to California by the illness of his brother, passed through railroad accidents in making the trip, and is now incapacitated by a sprained ankle. He expects to return to Fort Wayne in about three weeks.

WESTERN UNION AND PULLMANS OUSTED FROM KANSAS

Supreme Court Does It and Also Fires Pro-Saloon
Mayor of Leavenworth.

Topeka, Kan., May 11.—Writs of ouster were dismissed against the Western Union Telegraph company and the Pullman company here today by the supreme court of Kansas for not complying with the Kansas corporation laws. The ouster requires that the two companies must pay the charter fees required by the state before they can continue to do business in Kansas. It is said that both companies will appeal the cases to the supreme court of the United States.

TOPEKA MAYOR OF LEAVENWORTH.

Topeka, Kan., May 11.—The state supreme court today granted a writ to ouster Peter Everhardy, mayor of Leavenworth, from office for failure to enforce the laws against saloons and other resorts and also issued a writ to compel the city of Leavenworth to cease licensing such places.

It had been expected that the supreme court would today hand down a decision today in the case of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company, of St. Louis, which fought the application of Attorney General Jackson for the appointment of a receiver for the company's property in the state.

In the arguments, which were not finished until late last night, the attorney for the Anheuser-Busch company contended that the court lacked jurisdiction. The rule of law, he asserted, is that a receiver may be appointed to conserve the property of the corporation for the benefit of creditors and shareholders; a receiver could only be appointed or a proceeding instituted after a judgment had been rendered. The defendant company says it has respected the court's order to stop doing business in the state, but it is opposed to the appointment of a receiver and asks permission to remove its property.

The Anheuser-Busch defense is accepted as the defense in the cases of all the nine foreign brewing companies for whose property within Kansas the state supreme court recently named receivers. The receivers have already seized much of this property and are now on a tour of the state attaching more of it wherever found.

COLUMBIA'S GREEN CREW DEFEATS HARVARD IN VARSITY

Great Rowing Event on the Charles Results in a Close Contest.

Boston, May 11.—Columbia's green eight defeated the Harvard crack crew in the varsity race here this afternoon. Columbia won by half a length. Time—Columbia, 9:16; distance, 1-7-8 miles.

This was Columbia's first appearance on the Charles and the first rowing contest in twenty years in which these two colleges had engaged.

Harvard today looked for a victory, for its crew was made up of five veterans, who rowed a winning race against Yale at New London last June, and two new men. During the past two weeks Harvard shake-ups in the crew had been frequent and the positions were unsettled. Columbia's crew was composed of new men and is the first eight turned out by Rice, the new coach.

The crew so far as actual racing was concerned, was an unknown quantity. Today's event was regarded as an important tryout for each eight and likely to settle the uncertain positions for the later and more important events in which the crews are to engage.

Harvard at Ithaca with Cornell and later at New London against Yale and Columbia for the big annual regatta on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie.

The Columbia boys, however, feel they are one of the strongest crews of recent years and a close contest was expected. The crews started from Longwood bridge and rowed down stream, finishing in front of the Union Boat club. Julian Curtiss, who is prominently identified with Yale, was selected as referee.

PIERCE HEARING IS ON.

St. Louis, May 11.—The hearing on the habeas corpus writ applied for by counsel representing H. Clay Pierce, chairman of the board of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, was begun before Judge Adams in the United States circuit court today.

Sheriff Matthews, of Travis county, Texas, who arrived yesterday to take Pierce back to Texas to answer to the indictment charging perjury in making an affidavit in 1904, said prior to the hearing that if Pierce is turned over to his custody he would start for Texas tonight.

INTERURBAN CAR MIXES UP WITH A MILK WAGON

Damage Suit Results from the Affair—News of the Courts.

According to the allegations of a damage complaint filed in the superior court today by Edith R. Swartwood an interurban car got tangled up with her lone-horse milk wagon on Lewis street on February 7, of this year, and in addition to putting the contents out of commission the impact hurled her a great distance inflicting injuries to her legs, knees, side, back and spine, for which she thinks the Lima and Toledo or the Fort Wayne, Van Wert and Lima Traction company ought to pay her about $5,000.

She says she was driving across the track and exercising ordinary caution in the manner of keeping out of the way of cars, but that on account of the speed at which the car struck her milk wagon was being run and the carelessness of the motorman she was struck and injured. Harry G. Hogan filed the complaint.

Another Woman Files Suit. Addie Holmes also wants some personal damages which she fixes at $2,500 and for which she has filed suit against William Dammeyer. She says she is his tenant at 311 Brackenridge street and that by reason of rotten timbers under an outhouse she fell a distance of six feet, fracturing one of her legs, inflicting other injuries and preventing her from following her occupation of dressmaker. Guy Colerick is her attorney.

Decree Is Granted.

Hulda Beckstein, after two days of fighting in the superior court, secured a decree of divorce today from J. George Beckstein and the custody of their two children. The question of alimony was not disposed of and Judge Heaton will decide that later. The Becksteins have had two suits, in the first of which the wife was denied a decree.

Driver Ditch Up.

Attorneys W. & E. Leonard brought up the Driver ditch in the superior court this morning on the question of jurisdiction, but Judge Heaton had some other matters before him and did not decide the question. They contend that the new law repeals the old one and that the matter should go back to the county commissioners. The case has been before the supreme court and came back on a reversal.

Court Notes.

In the divorce suit of Clara M. Esterline against Samuel A. Esterline the restraining order secured by the wife was so modified as to permit him to draw his wages from the Pennsylvania company.

Amos E. Houck filed his report in the partition filed in the division of the Oriswell estate.

The will of Permelia Metz was probated and under its conditions all her property goes to her step-daughter, Lillie M. Carmer, excepting a bequest of $100 to Joseph W. Compton, a brother of the deceased.

KILLED AND CREMATED BABE.

Milwaukee Woman Said to Have Left Child to Freeze Before Burning It.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 11.—Charged with having murdered an infant child by placing outdoors under a doorstep until it froze to death, then burning the body in a stove in their home, Catherine Ellenberger and Anna Goldman are under arrest at the central police station charged with murder.

The Goldman woman is said to be married. She and Catherine Ellenberger, her sister-in-law, had been trying for some time to dispose of the child either to the poor house or some charitable organization. It is said. The alleged crime is said to have been committed on February 13, last.

INDIANAPOLIS ENUMERATION.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 11.—A total enumeration of children of school age in Indianapolis of 52,913 is disclosed by the complete tabulation of the school enumeration completed a week ago. This shows an increase of 3,715 over the enumeration of last year.

same time ignoring the existence of the carmen's union and the protests which it makes through its president. The outlook for peace is anything but bright and the defiant attitude assumed on both sides suggests a fight to the finish.

A large force of strike breakers arrived here early this morning and 400 of them were housed at the Valencia street barn. The new men are under contract with the company for $3.50 per day with board and lodging.

The committee of fifty and the conciliatory committee of the labor council are still working to secure a settlement of the existing industrial troubles but their efforts are not attended with much success.

Telephone Situation Alleviated. The telephone situation shows some alleviation, according to the company officials, but the operatives on strike deny the claim that there has been any accession from their ranks. The iron and laundry worker's strikes are unchanged.

There have been no further fatalities reported among the victims of the riot on Tuesday last. The condition of Palm, who was shot in the head, is still precarious and his recovery is considered doubtful. All the others are doing fairly well.

The San Francisco board of trade has taken up the charges of ill treatment made by non-union men under arrest by the police force, and has retained counsel to thoroughly investigate the case.

SEEMS SLIGHTLY BETTER.

It is said that the condition of the venerable George H. Wilson seems slightly more favorable today, but the aged man is yet in a very critical condition.

The Lewis and Clark exposition brought 120,000 persons from east of the Rocky mountains to the coast in 1905. With the foundation in exploitation laid by Portland for Seattle to build upon, says a writer in the Pacific Monthly, the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition will bring at least 250,000 in 1909.

HON. JAMES WATSON IS COMING TO ENCAMPMENT

Will Give Veterans Some Classy Oratorical—Project Moves.

A letter from Hon. James E. Watson, of Rushville, was received by Secretary Skelton this morning saying that he accepts the invitation to attend the G. A. R. encampment. This was glad news as Mr. Watson has a national reputation as an orator of the first quality and is in demand all over the country for speeches. He is a member of the house from the Sixth Indiana district and is now serving his fifth term in congress with excellent chance of being the next speaker if it remains in control of his party. He will certainly be heard at the encampment on Thursday night of the encampment. In the party control of the house he is known as the "whip"—an office designed to promote the business of the house by keeping members in their seats where they vote when their names are called.

The committee has appointed Sam Kelker and James Liggett a committee to see that the veterans when they arrive May 22 and 23 find their way to headquarters and to their lodgings assigned them. They ask the owners of automobiles to give the use of their cars and chauffeurs for a couple of hours each day and the time will be arranged so that the burden will not be heavy on any of them.

The committee was disappointed this morning when Corporal Tanner, whose eloquence the veterans know of so well, wrote that he could not be present. The cadets of Howe university are also unable to attend by reason of a prior engagement.

The following cash subscriptions have been paid in and deposited to the credit of Treasurer Rohan: EM Rosenthal, $1; J. P. Bonnell, $1; William Dyer, $1; Sons of Veterans, $75; Henry Wellman, $2; Cudahy company, $5; F. N. Palmer, $2; Lodge No. 19, I. O. O. F., $10; Elmer Sherwin, $1; A. C. Alter, $5; J. B. O'Rourke, $1; Ben Lehman, $25; Heaton & Yapple, $5; Offenloch & Co., $2.

The subscriptions reported by the Sons of Veterans up to last night were as follows: The Sentinel, $25; Western Gas Construction company, $15; Archer Printing company, $10; Joseph and Philip Bursley, $10; Dr. Miles F. Porter, $10; William M. Griffin, $10.

BOXING AT AUBURN.

"Chick" Long Defeats Young Howard, of Indianapolis.

In the boxing match at Auburn last evening "Chick" Long, of this city, after ten rounds of fast fighting, was given the decision over Young Howard, of Indianapolis. Long carried the fight at all times and in two or three rounds had Howard groggy, but was unable to put him away. After the sixth round the Indianapolis boy played a defensive game, continually clinging to save punishment. "Chick" showed a decided improvement in his work and was also in top notch condition, due to his careful training. In a hotly contested preliminary Frank Mason, of this city, won from George Dale, of Indianapolis, in six rounds. Chas. Cavanaugh, of Fort Wayne, refereed the bouts.

EFFORT TO COMBINE 7,000 TELEPHONE COMPANIES

One Thousand Managers and Presidents to Meet in Chicago Next Month.

Chicago, May 11.—Development of a plan to cement 7,000 telephone companies of the United States and Canada into one gigantic organization is expected to follow the gathering in Chicago next month of 1,000 managers and presidents of the interested companies. The men will come as delegates to the convention of the International Independent Telephone association, to continue three days, from June 4, at the Auditorium hotel, independent telephone associations of thirty states, with approximately $50,000,000 invested, are to send delegations to the convention to urge forward the movement to unite.

Success of the movement inaugurated means the building of long distance telephone lines throughout the country, giving unfettered toll service to more than 3,000,000 users of independent telephones. Ohio is leading the agitation for consolidation, with 200,000 independent telephones in use. Indiana, with 200,000, is second. Other states having complete organizations are: Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, New Hampshire, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Tennessee and Vermont.

The call for consolidation has come at the close of the most prosperous year in the history of independent telephony. Starting as a rural departure the independent telephone growth first included only the smaller cities. Now it is seeking entry to the large centers of population. Within the last year nearly $100,000,000 was expended in independent plants. Denver, Omaha and Milwaukee, in the west, granted franchises, while Boston and Providence stand out as the leading eastern cities, giving the new system admittance.

Delegates to the convention will hear reports that the independent telephone organizations now practically control the Pacific coast and that all the principal cities of Oregon and Washington have adopted the new system within the last few months. Southern delegates will report that all the independent plants in Alabama have been enlarged and that half a score of Tennessee cities, including Nashville, are having exchanges constructed.

Canada is expected to send 150 delegates to the convention. The high points of interest in Canadian affairs center in Ontario, where scores of new companies have been organized. Manitoba voters have obtained power from the government to build a complete long distance system and sixty municipalities will construct local exchanges. The independent systems in Manitoba and Alberta are to be connected soon by long distance lines through Saskatchewan.

For a cold or a cough take Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. It is BETTER than any other cough remedy because its laxative principle assures a healthy, copious action of the bowels and at the same time it heals irritation of the throat, strengthens the bronchial tubes and allays inflammation of the mucous membrane. Contains Honey and Tar, pleasant to take. Children like it. Conforms to the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by all druggists.

In Spring-Time Many People Need a Good Tonic.

Mrs. R. Boyer Writes From 1421 Sherman Ave., Evanston, Ill., Concerning Pe-ru-na. Read Her Letter Below:

MRS. R. BOYER

"If any one has reason to praise Peruna, it is surely myself.

"Last spring I became run down from the serious effects of lingering cold and several complications united in pulling me down.

"I could neither eat nor sleep well, and lost flesh and spirit.

"I finally tried Peruna and it did wonders for me.

"In two weeks I was like another person and in a month I felt better than I ever had before.

"I thank Peruna for new life and strength."

Aids Digestion, Promotes Sleep.

Mr. E. Arnold, Westerly, R. I., writes: "I wish to say a good word for your valuable remedy, Peruna. I have taken many kinds of medicine during my life, but find that Peruna stands ahead of all. It aids digestion, promotes sleep, quiets the nervous system, strengthens the throat and vocal organs. I have used it for catarrh and to break up sudden colds which is the best of all.

"I contracted a severe cold once which ended in pleurisy and left me weak, and every change of weather would bring a return of old pains. Peruna now vanishes all pain. I cannot praise it enough. I tell all my friends that it is the best medicine used for the ill of life. If any word of mine will lead others to try it, you are at liberty to use my testimonial in any form."

Gave New Life and Force.

Mr. B. F. Sellers, 2334 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo., writes:

Pe-ru-na, a Standard Tonic the World Over.

From the bracing rigors of winter to the balmy warmth of spring-time is a climatic change that affects every one more or less. A great multitude of people, however, are so affected by the change as to require medical assistance.

If such people neglect to take a good tonic that will safely tide them over the trying weather of early spring, the system is weakened, the blood over loaded with effete materials of the winter season and the victim is rendered an easy prey to acute ailments.

It has been the universal experience of mankind that a spring tonic of some sort is necessary. All kinds of remedies, herbal and mineral, have been used. There is usually great uncertainty as to the operation of the average spring tonic.

Peruna, on the other hand, has been in use for so many years and in such a variety of climates and by such a multitude of people that its beneficial operation for spring ailments has become a practical certainty. Peruna can be relied upon as a spring tonic. It cleanses the blood by correcting the digestion, which is the source of good blood.

MR. L. D. TOWNSEND

Mr. L. D. Townsend, suite 2, 3 and 4, Century Bldg., St. Joseph, Mich., writes: "I am grateful for what Peruna has done for my family. "Six months ago my wife's health was very much run down, lacking vigor and suffering with pains in her head and back. "A friend advised her to try Peruna, which she did with most satisfactory results. In a few weeks she was completely restored to her usual vigor, and is now happy, well and strong, thanks to Peruna. "I have tried Peruna myself when tired and overworked and in every instance I have felt better within a day or two."

to spend the whole night with a tremendous strain on his respiratory organs. I have time and again gone home so worn out that I could neither eat nor sleep, and a number of my colleagues have been in the same condition. "But Peruna has changed this. I found that after using a bottle or two my system was greatly invigorated with new life and force, and I can now fortify my system to endure a greater strain than was ever possible before. Peruna certainly is very necessary to me, and keeps me in splendid health."

Headache and Backache.

Mrs. Nannie Hall, 12 Herbert street, Atlanta, Ga., writes:

"I write to tell you how much good your Peruna has done for me. I was so sick and nervous that I was almost dead. I could not eat nor sleep nor work any at all, but was in bed nearly all the time, and was almost a skeleton. I was so poor. Now I can eat anything I want and it doesn't hurt me, and I can sleep all night long and get up and work all day. I don't have any nervous-

MRS. E. MALMGREN

Mrs. Elin Malmgren, 77 Cleveland street, West Manchester, N. H., writes: "Every spring and fall, for eleven years, I have been troubled with catarrh in my throat and nose and hoarseness. "I am pleased to state that at last I found a medicine, Peruna, from which I received great benefit, and I will hereafter use and recommend it. "I always keep it in my house in case of sickness. "I recommend your medicine to all my friends and every sufferer as an excellent medicine."

ness now, but am happy all the day long. I sing the praises of Peruna wherever I go, and I believe it saved my life. I could not have lived through the summer in the condition I was in. "I had tried many doctors, but they did me no good. Peruna certainly cured me. I had headache and backache and was very nervous. I could not eat nor sleep, and was almost in my grave. I tried your Peruna, and I felt better from the start. I look about five bottles of Peruna and the awful headache and nervousness

Mr. C. A. Landgrave, Box 25, Coalbury, Ohio, Gives His Experience With Peruna. Read His Letter Below:

MR. C. A. LANDGRABE

"I had been a slight sufferer for a number of years, but paid little attention to it until the spring of this year when my suffering became very severe.

"I had pain in the head, back, liver, chest and other parts of my body, besides indigestion which caused me much trouble.

"I tried medical aid, but to no purpose. I wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice, telling him of my various ailments and he informed me that I had systemic catarrh.

"After using the first bottle of Peruna, I felt relief. I continued to use it until I had taken four bottles, when I felt entirely cured. I recommend Peruna to others."

Doctors Called It Consumption.

Miss Ella L. Matthews, Box 111, Hill City, Tenn., writes:

"I find much pleasure in writing you to let you know that I have been taking your wonderful tonic, Peruna. From experience I have decided that there could be no greater medicine in the world than Peruna.

"Several physicians had pronounced my disease as consumption. I had been a sufferer for several years, and was growing weaker all the while, until I could hardly walk across my room.

"I was so fortunate as to get a Peruna book, and after reading it carefully I decided Peruna was the remedy for me, so I began taking it. To-day my health is better than it has been since I had the measles ten years ago. I cannot express half the praise which is due to Dr. Hartman for his great and wonderful remedy and his advice regarding health. I do not think I would be living this day had it not been for Peruna."

NINE HURT IN TROLLEY WRECK.

Work Train Demolishes Passenger Coach and Injures Occupants.

Edwardsville, Ill., May 11.—While a southbound through electric car from Springfield, containing twenty passengers, was halted on a curve of the McKinley interurban line to repair a trolley yesterday afternoon within a few miles of here, an electric locomotive drawing a work train dashed around the curve at full speed and demolished the coach, injuring nine persons, several seriously. The injured are:

THE MASTER OF POLITICS.

That President Roosevelt has fully determined to be the master of politics in the republican party, that he is irrevocably committed to the nomination of Secretary Taft as his successor and that he means to sidetrack not only the booms of other candidates has been made completely manifest within the past two or three days. The president will adopt no half way measures. He will go even to the length of engineering and bringing about endorsement of himself for a third term in those states where it is found impossible to gain endorsement for Secretary Taft. Except in this state, where the Fairbanks movement is to enjoy immunity from the president's interference, favorite son endorsements are to be fought to a finish. This sums up the declaration of the Roosevelt policy as made in Washington Thursday. The statements bearing thereon were made by the president himself and Secretary Cortelyou, the latter the manager of the administration's political activities.

The president made his declaration to a few newspaper men. Secretary Cortelyou talked to a larger number. The declarations were evidently pre-arranged. President Roosevelt told those whom he invited to get news, ex-cathedra, that under no conditions would he accept a third-term nomination. He held that he was fully committed to the nomination of Secretary Taft. The only way to defeat the nomination of the Ohioan that he can see, is the favorite son game. The president made an emphatic declaration that he would not stand for favorite son declarations, because they represent to him the danger of a combination of favorite son booms that might result in a defeat for Roosevelt policies.

As a matter of protection for his own work, he declared, he must oppose all those that appear to him to have been started for no other purpose than that of controlling the delegation. He credits Vice President Fairbanks with sincerity and will not try to break up the Fairbanks boom.

All others are on the list for destruction. Knox in Pennsylvania, Cannon in Illinois, Hughes in New York, and Warner in Missouri, must not expect the president to allow the delegations from those states to go to the convention with endorsements for them, from the obligations of which they would be absolved as soon as the head of the delegation thought that way.

Secretary Cortelyou frankly said the president would be a "dead one" if he permitted the fact that he will not take a third term to stand in the way of endorsements for himself in states where the Taft people cannot control the convention. He believes it is necessary for the president to ask for endorsements for himself in states like Pennsylvania, Illinois and New York, where the reactionary element of the party is willing to play at the favorite son game so as to get a set of delegates that will, after the favorite son is officially declared to be dead, go to some candidate inimical to the Roosevelt policies.

As to Taft, official Washington strongly inclines to the view that the harmony deal in Ohio marked the beginning of the end so far as the republican nomination for president next year is concerned. With the administration and a united party in his state back of him politicians in Washington cannot figure out a defeat for the secretary of war.

It is expected that Judge Samuel R. Artman, of Lebanon, this state, will quit the bench to engage in the war against the liquor traffic. Judge Artman was prominent a few years ago in the Indiana senate and later was elected to the circuit bench in Hendricks county. He has been now and again talked of for the republican nomination for governor. A few weeks ago he attracted national attention by ruling in his court that to grant licenses to saloons was in contravention of both the constitution of the United States and of the state of Indiana. He held the saloon to be a nuisance which the state has no right to license under constitutional or moral law. Judge Artman expects to go into the southwest soon to carry on the propaganda of prohibition.

Just write down that on the morning of May 11, 1907, there was frost on any pumpkins that were left out over night and a rather too strong sheeting of ice over the puddles. Not specially enjoyable, but at least worth remembering against a time when you are old enough to have fun talking about such things. The education of the oldest inhabitant should begin early.

And Abe Hummel, star witness in the Thaw trial, is going to take a year's vacation. He will spend it at the expense of the state of New York and when it is ended he will have something better than an abstract idea of life in a prison. It is well that this is so. Hummel is a very, very undesirable citizen.

Vice President Fairbanks is the only favorite son save Taft that the president is not going to butt off the track. But wherefore? If Roosevelt is going to capture all the other states what use has the elongated second citizen of the republic for lone Indiana?

The consignment of weather that has been delivered hereabouts for a few days might pass for ethereal mildness up at Rat Hole or Medicine Hat, but it is a counterfeit that fools nobody in this latitude.

STATUE FOR "PITTSBURG PHIL"

Will Be Unveiled in Home City on Memorial Day.

Pittsburg, May 11.—A feature in Pittsburg on Memorial day will be the unveiling of the statue of "Pittsburg Phil," the race follower, who died two years ago worth over $1,000,000. It will cost $4,000 and will surmount the $10,000 mausoleum built by "Phil" in Uniondale cemetery before his death and in which his remains lie. "Phil's" real name was George E. Smith, and when he died he was but 42. The statue is a striking likeness of the dead man, a rifle over life-size, and depicts him bareheaded with a roll of papers in his right hand. The costume is the conventional Prince Albert suit. The statue is erected by Smith's mother, who has remarried since his death and is now Mrs. Eliza Woods.

A new and scientific appliance invented by L. B. Hawley, M. D., will produce full manly power at first application. The effects are immediate and startling to a high degree. Develops, strengthens and cures lost vigor. Positively no failures. Physicians endorse and use it in their practice. If you are the least skeptical as to the value of this remarkable treatment, send for illustrated circulars; take them to your family physician and get his opinion. This is the first time anyone has requested you to take his circulars to your family physician. Why? Simply because he knows your physician will not recommend his treatment. Not so with this appliance. Your doctor will immediately grasp the idea, and when he does he will recommend it. Nothing like it has ever been sold before. It works the same on every individual. Send today for Free Descriptive Circular, containing actual photographic reproductions of this wonderful instrument. The moment you see it you will realize its possibilities. No C. O. D. or Free-trial schemes to catch the unwary. This is a plain business proposition that will appeal to you as the greatest opportunity ever offered to those who are weak. Address L. B. Hawley, M. She was found by her daughter about midnight Thursday night lying on the floor of the dining room in a blazing pool of oil which came from an overturned lamp on the floor beside her. She has been an invalid for some years, and it is believed she had arisen to get a dose of medicine and overturned the lamp in attempting to light it.

In the circuit court at Huntington Friday, M. D. Brineman, upon whose evidence the state had relied to convict County Commissioner Chenoweth of having received money improperly in the new court house matter, as founded the state's attorney by declaring that the statement of Commissioner Chenoweth was merely a joke and that he had no understanding it at the time. The witness further asserted that he had attempted to so inform the grand jury, but that the prosecutor had shut him off with the statement that he only wanted to know what Mr. Chenoweth had said. The state's case is regarded as extremely weak.

Using a big force of men and working throughout Thursday night, the Toledo and Chicago Interurban company threw a track across the farm of J. C. Eastman, south of Garrett, completing its "cut-off" reaching from the Fort Wayne line to the Kendallville-Avilla branch. Mr. Eastman had gone into court to prevent the laying of tracks across his farm, asserting that it meant the practical destruction of the property for the use to which he intended to devote it—planting into town lots as an addition to Garrett.

The court had dissolved the temporary injunction but a few hours before, and the company lost no time in taking advantage of the situation. Later there was an adjustment between the company and Mr. Eastman and no further litigation will result.

Dangerous Drugs

Stimulating Drugs, Whether in the Form of Medicine or Beverage, Should Not Be Taken by Sick People Except in Cases of Emergency. They Are Harmful and Dangerous and Add Nothing to the Body But Trouble. The Wheeler Method of Curing All Kinds of Nervous Diseases is Entirely Free From Such Stimulating Poisons.

J. HARVEY HUTCHINGS

FREDERICK RAUH

The nervous system is the source of all human energy, thought and sensations. Anything that impairs the nerves injures the entire body. Stimulants whip the nerves into action, as does a whip applied to a tired horse, but the reaction weakens and destroys. Stimulants do not add a single atom of permanent vigor, nor contain an iota that is natural or needful to the body, consequently must be driven out as harmful.

Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer does not contain alcohol or any harmful drug. It contains properties that are natural and necessary to weak nerves. It supplies new energy that the nerves need to make them permanently strong.

The nerves eagerly absorb the properties contained in Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, and gratefully respond to the tonic influence by arousing activity in the body. It matters little what the nervous ill may be; it will soon be cured. Nearly every one who has ever used this medicine will gladly endorse its virtues. But usually nervous people are doubtful and suspicious. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer will cure them if they take it, whether they have confidence in it or not.

I wish to state for the benefit of suffering humanity that I have found in Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer a veritable boon to those needing a nerve builder. In 1875 I received an injury which resulted in lateral curvature of the spine. After three operations the curvature was straightened, but the weakness was still there, and my nervous system was quite badly shattered. For days at a time I was unable to lie down, and would go without sleep as long as Nature would allow, and then by the use of chloral obtain some rest, and go on again, year in and year out. I used every known remedy in materia medica, and tried every proprietary medicine I put in stock, but all with the same effect. I at last tried Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, and the results have been happy beyond all expectations. I can sleep as well as anyone, have gained in flesh from 142 pounds two years ago, to 190 pounds now. I know what I am talking about when I say Wheeler's is the best, as I have been selling drugs for the past twenty years, and handling medicines for nearly twenty-five years. J. HARVEY HUTCHINGS, Bancroft, Mich.

I consider your Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer one of the world's seven wonders. I had been falling in health for several years, growing weaker, until I had to give up work two years ago. Since that time I treated with the doctors and took all of the advertised nerve cures, until I became disgusted, because they did not help me. I finally tried your Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer, and less than one bottle of it put me on my feet, so that I could return to work. I consider it remarkable that such a small quantity of the medicine could accomplish so much. It certainly is a wonder. FREDERICK RAUH, Elliott, Pa.

SHOP AND RAIL

Day's Happenings in the Industrial World

W. G. CONNELLY PROMOTED.

Goes to Wellsville as Foreman of Pennsylvania Erecting Shop.

W. G. Connelly will leave this evening for Wellsville, Ohio, where he will assume the duties of foreman of the Pennsylvania company's erecting shop, quite a responsible position. Mr. Connelly has been night foreman at the Pennsylvania machine shop in this city for some time. He learned his trade in that shop and has never worked elsewhere.

THE FUTURE TIMBER SUPPLY.

Pennsylvania Starts Another Forest
Nursery of 550,000 Trees.

In undertaking the most extensive private forest-planting on record, the Pennsylvania railroad has just begun setting out some 550,000 trees. The purpose is to provide economically in future years for the company's requirements for ties.

Work upon a large basis is progressing this week at Mt. Union, Pa., where about 225,000 trees are to be planted. At Altoona, 250,000 or more red oak trees are to be set out this spring. At Hollidaysburg, a "forest nursery" is being created, about 135 pounds of seed being planted this year in nursery beds, and many trees being set in nursery rows for use next year.

When this spring's planting is completed, the company will have about 1,000 acres under cultivation. Some 2,250,000 trees will have been set out, in addition to the seed planted. The planting is done with great attention to scientific detail, under the direct supervision of the company's recently appointed forester, Mr. E. A. Sterling, formerly of the United States bureau of forestry.

The selection of species for each planting site is determined by the character of the ground and the suitability of the trees for railroad purposes. Some of the seeds, such as catalpa and locust, will produce material useful for posts, etc., in fifteen to twenty years; but others, such as Scotch pine and red oak, which will be grown for larger material, such as ties, will not be ready for cutting in less than thirty to forty years. Chestnut is also being used; its seedling will take nearly as long as red oak to mature, but the sprout growth, which will be depended on later in natural forests, will grow in about twenty years. These latter species are planted upon the theory that by the time they are full grown ties will be more generally and successfully treated with preservatives, for without that treatment such ties would be of secondary value.

Some idea of the necessity for such an extraordinary undertaking as this may be gathered from the fact that the Pennsylvania railroad system utilizes 5,000,000 new ties every year, each tie costing about 70 cents. The life of a tie is about seven years. In recent years ties have been getting scarcer and much more expensive, so that the company found it necessary to make this provision for the future, both to insure itself a proper supply of ties and to obtain them at a low price.

TO IMPROVE STEEL RAILS.

Experts Considering Matter With View of Preventing Wrecks.

An important step has been taken by manufacturers of steel rails and the railway companies which make such extensive use of this commodity to bring about an improvement in the steel rail product, thus giving better security to the public against accidents and providing a higher grade article for the railroads. This movement results from recent criticisms made by railroad experts concerning the life and general durability of steel rails. It has been maintained that breakage has been more frequent of recent months, and that there is a gradual deterioration in the product. Whether this is due to the intrinsic quality of the ores used, to the processes of manufacture, or the immense strain of growing tonnage is an open question.

With a view to reconciling all the divergent views, a committee of experts has now been appointed, both the railways and manufacturers of steel rails being represented on the committee. Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, said today concerning the work of this expert committee: "The manufacturers of steel rails and railroad companies both realize that conditions relating to railroad operations have materially changed, and that it is desirable to use every practicable precaution against accident. With this end in view a committee of experts appointed by the American Railway association are in consultation with a committee of experts representing the manufacturers. Every suggestion for the improvement of present conditions will be given careful consideration, and it is believed the manufacturers and railroad managers will agree upon a standard of excellence that should not be questioned."

Wonder.

Capt. H. M. Diehl, air brake instructor for the Pennsylvania, returned from Pittsburgh this morning. While in that city he inspected the largest passenger locomotive ever built in America, which will soon be running on the Fort Wayne branch of the Pennsylvania lines. This locomotive has three pairs of driving wheels, each eight inches in diameter, and when in working order weighs 250,000 pounds. Captain Diehl says that, despite the immensity of the locomotive, it is symmetrical viewed from any point and is one of the prettiest engines ever turned out of the shops. Captain Diehl delivered a lecture on "air brakes" at the Railroad Y. M. C. A. rooms in Pittsburgh last Tuesday evening, which was well received by the large audience.

INSTALLING BIG INTERLOCKER.

Biggest Plant in Ohio Now in Course of Construction.

The work of installing an interlocking plant at Broadway and Jones road, Cleveland, which will cost $100,000 and be operated by electricity, has been taken up. The roads interested are the Pennsylvania, the Wheeling and Lake Erie, the Newburg and Southshore and a branch of the Cleveland Terminal and Valley road. This plant will be the first in the Cleveland territory to be operated by electricity, which is more costly than the ordinary interlocker, but it has the advantage of working for a much greater distance.

LOOKING AFTER VOTES.

Each of the candidates for honors at the hands of the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association are hustling and the contest is going to be one of the most spirited yet made. Crawford Griswold and George McManigal have been in the field several weeks and today J. R. Blitzer, a machinist, started upon his first canvass of the territory. He went to Crestline this morning and will go to Chicago before he returns home.

RAIL ORDERS CURTAILED.

Instead of placing orders for 153,000 tons of steel rails, as planned some weeks ago, the Pennsylvania Railroad company is ordering but 140,000 tons for 1908 delivery. The retrenchment policy inaugurated by President James McCrear some time ago will result in leaving the company with a surplus of rail supply under the 1907 delivery, of about 20,000 tons, which have been credited to the 1908 requirements.

GONE TO A BANQUET.

Agent and Mrs. H. E. Allison went to Continental, O., last night to attend a banquet given by the Twentieth Century club, of which Mrs. Allison is one of the members. Mr. and Mrs. Allison resided a number of years in Continental, where he was the Nickel Plate's agent. He now occupies a similar position with the company in Fort Wayne.

WEEKLY ENGINE OUTPUT.

The Pennsylvania shops repaired and turned out during the week ending today thirteen engines as follows: Nos. 7149, 7200, 7210, 7295, 7414, 7432, 7440, 7445, 7482, 7513, 7839, 7895 and 7950.

RETURNED FROM OLD COUNTRY.

J. A. Glider, Pennsylvania watchman at the Wayne trace crossing, has resumed that duty after a trip abroad, which consumed a month. Mr. Glider visited the scenes of his boyhood while in the old country and had a most pleasant trip.

CHANGE AT CROSSING GATES.

Samuel Wlesner, who has had charge of the crossing of the Pennsylvania road and College street for some months, has been transferred to the maintenance of way department and sent to Warsaw to take a position with Supervisor Berlin. He will be assigned to duties with the work train. J. Diller, a veteran in the service, who had charge of a pump at a water station for some time, has been assigned to the College street crossing.

CONDUCTOR HAYES IMPROVING.

Conductor James Hayes, of the G. & L., who was injured in the accident down the line two weeks ago, is up and around the house, though he has not yet ventured out of doors. He is making rapid progress towards recovery and will soon be on duty again.

WILL LOSE BOTH FEET.

Beverly, the seventeen-year-old son of Passenger Conductor Thomas Coleman, of the G. & L., will be a cripple if he survives the operation that is to be performed upon him at a hospital in Grand Rapids tomorrow or the following day. The young man had dropsy and both feet were lanced to relieve the pressure of the disease. Now blood poisoning has set in and one and possibly both of his feet will have to be amputated.

NEW CLERK AT FREIGHT HOUSE.

W. B. Shepherd, of Geneva, Ind., has been employed as night clerk at the Pennsylvania freight house. He succeeds F. E. Baade, who resigned and returned to his home in Logansport.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Arthur Holzhauser is a new molder at the Western Gas works.

Otto Miller, a crane tender at the Bass blacksmith shop, is sick and off duty today.

Painter Peter Manock went to Lake James this morning to spend Sunday in his cottage.

Conductor and Mrs. E. T. Estey are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Fred Weir, of Chicago.

Pennsylvania Fireman H. L. Keane is sick and Fireman J. A. Frederick has a lame back and both are off duty.

William Luley was taken sick while on duty at the Western Gas works yesterday and had to be removed to his home.

T. B. Hunt, of the Pennsylvania motive power department, has gone to Chicago for a Sunday visit with his family.

Traveling Sales Manager C. H. Printz, of the Western Gas works, has returned from a trip of the southern states. He reports business good in the south.

Machinist Thomas O'Connell, of the Pennsylvania, has gone to the lakes to be the guest of Pearl Bigler over Sunday. Mr. Bigler was employed at the shops a number of years.

Master Mechanic B. Fitzpatrick, of the Pennsylvania, has returned from West Baden greatly improved in health. He is looking after affairs at the Pennsylvania shops as usual.

W. E. Davis, assistant to General Superintendent A. M. Shoyer, of the Pennsylvania, arrived home at noon today to spend Sunday with his family.

Otto Morell, of the Pennsylvania, has recovered a valuable Elk watch charm that he lost Thursday night and is feeling pretty good over his good fortune.

Division Storekeeper E. L. Ensel, of the Wabash, went to Peru this morning to spend Sunday with his family.

Machinist Ed J. Hausbach has returned from Gary, where he spent several days repairing the Wabash steam shovel.

Motive Power Superintendent J. B. Barnes, of the Wabash, is in the city on business and for a Sunday visit with his family.

George Lenz, who has been clerking for his father, Fred Lenz, has taken a position in the Pennsylvania machine shop. He is a fine ball player and will pitch for the Pennsylvania team.

Wabash Engineer H. Schwarz, who has charge of a switch engine in the yards in this city, left with a party of friends this morning for Silver Lake, where he expects to fish a few days.

N. A. Allgeier and E. L. Yehl have gone to Alliance and H. H. Majors and F. Yehl have gone to Sandusky to do some work for the Pennsylvania. They are pipefitters.

Machinist Julius Koch, of the Pennsylvania shops, accompanied by his wife and two of their children, has gone to Lima, Ohio, to attend the funeral of a relative.

The G. & L. fishing train will make its first trip of the season to Rome City tomorrow, leaving the south depot at 6 o'clock. Returning the train will leave Rome City at 7 o'clock.

Pennsylvania shopmen who are sick and off duty are J. G. Hoerner, Ed Kline, C. D. Whitney and Jacob Cammerman. C. M. Vaughn, of the tank shop, is off duty to look after some private business.

Today engine No. 1021, one of the small freighters on the Buffalo division of the Wabash, left the shops in this city, thoroughly repaired. Buffalo engines 1392 and 1125 were taken in the shops today for repairs.

Herbert E. Griffin, formerly employed in the stereotyping department of the Sentinel office, has secured employment with Foreman F. J. Mannix in the Pennsylvania erecting shop and will commence work Monday.

George Hauch, power plant engineer, who had been sick, resumed work at the Pennsylvania shops this morning.

Engineer C. N. Kiley, of the same plant, is taking a lay off to look after some private business.

Matt Sachreiter, who was employed in the Pennsylvania round house several years, resigning a year ago, resumed his old place there this morning.

C. H. Middleton also took a position at the round house this morning.

The local branch of the Molders' union will be represented at the national convention of the union which begins its sessions in Philadelphia, July 22, by Fred W. Rippe, of the Fort Wayne Electric works. Theodore Bruick was elected alternate.

J. E. Manning, who came here a short time ago to become stationary fireman at the Wabash blacksmith shop, has discovered that the position is not a sinecure and he resigned this morning to return to his old home.

G. Kull, a laborer, has also resigned his position.

Machinist George McKinzie called at the Wabash shops this morning to see his comrades and to tell them that he expected to be with them as usual in a week or two. Mr. McKinzie has been in a hospital at Decatur for the removal of an eye and is getting along nicely. The remaining eye is all right.

Local B. R. T. officials have been advised of the coming of F. L. Peick, of Garrett, Ind., who is making the rounds of the railway centers in the state to see that the full crew law is enforced. Mr. Peick was chairman of the legislative committee that was instrumental in getting the law on the statutes. He will be here the last of May.

A west-bound Wabash freight train broke in two a short distance east of New Haven yesterday afternoon and in the collision of the parts, a car was derailed, broken and thrown acrosswise of the tracks, completely blocking them. The wreck crew hastened to the scene and soon had the tracks cleared. The train was in charge of Conductor Lynn.

Local Wabash officials have received notice that a party of Cleveland manufacturers and wholesale merchants will arrive in Fort Wayne at 3:10 o'clock Friday afternoon, May 17, and will spend the balance of the day here, calling upon the local dealers who handle their class of goods. The party will travel in a chartered car and will visit the leading towns and cities in Indiana, as has been their annual practice for many years.

The purchase of the Leaser property on Wall street was completed by the Fort Wayne Electric works yesterday. It lies immediately west of the Rastetter homestead and has a frontage of 82 feet on Wall street and the Pennsylvania right-of-way and is 175 feet deep. The company obtained an option upon the property before it purchased the Broadway property, but failure to get the Rastetter property caused a change in plans.

Bulletins announcing the retirement of Robert Bickensderfer, consulting engineer of the Wheeling and Lake Erie road are out. He will engage in farming in Missouri. Mr. Bickensderfer was general manager of the W. & L. E. before the property fell under control of the Wabash. When his son, Dr. Bickensderfer, was connected with the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association, with headquarters in Fort Wayne, the elder Bickensderfer made occasional visits here and became known to a number of Fort Wayne railway men.

Bellevue Gazette: H. S. Cretcher, west end passenger brakeman on the Nickel Plate, is moving his family here today from Fort Wayne. They will occupy a residence on East Center street. After a brief vacation, car robbers have again started their work on the Nickel Plate. Train No. 53 was selected as a victim Wednesday night, and a car containing shoes was entered. Several pairs of fine footwear were secured and as yet the thieves have not been discovered. The robbery was discovered upon the arrival of the train in the local yards this morning, a checker finding the car open. An invoice of the car's contents was taken and Nickel Plate officer John Beattie is now working on the case.

PARIS FASHIONS

STUNNING PARISIAN AFTERNOON COSTUMES.

Parisian frocks are models that will be much worn here during the coming summer and early fall. They are made on lines that will be equally becoming to young women and to matrons. The designs of these costumes are simple enough for the home dressmaker to follow without difficulty, a recommendation that will appeal strongly to women who make or remodel their own frocks. In cloth, voile or silks, these dresses would be running.

How to Reduce Hips and Acquire Smart Figure

Exercises That Strengthen Muscles at Waist Line and Movements That Wear Away Flesh on Hips Should Be Taken Daily.

By Margaret Mixer.

The continuance of empire fashions make it necessary for women to get their figures into condition to wear these models, and as the long, clinging lines of these gowns do not set well over large hips, persons who have superfluous flesh or flabby muscles should effect a change by a systematic course of exercises.

Some excellent movements for reduction and the strengthening of sinews may be taken by placing the heels together, turning the feet well out at an angle as possible, keeping the body erect and the chest expanded, with the head up. Then by slow degrees bend the knees, spreading them as far as possible as the body sinks to a sitting position, and in doing this the heels must be raised, the whole weight of the body coming onto the toes. Of course, a heavy figure would find a difficulty in this at first, but everything comes by practice, and these are excellent maneuvers to establish a balance and to give elasticity or movement to those who have passed their first youth. Then, still balanced on the toes, rise erect, and lower the heels flat on the ground; repeat this over and over again, say a dozen times.

To make a change, raise the arms and wave them over the head as the body sinks, allowing them to drop at the sides as it rises. As the exercise becomes easier by practice, repeat it a great many times, and even if the muscles seem tender afterward, a cold bath and ample self massage will soon do away with the soreness. More difficult is the second exercise. Stand facing a wall, the arms stretched out straight in front, and the feet extended as much as you can to retain the balance, the arms horizontal. Keep the hands ten inches apart, and let the elbows drop as the body is tilted forward, the palms against the wall, fingers up. When the chest and ribs rest against the wall between the hands the heels should be kept flat; indeed, the more the figure rests against the wall the more efficacious is the exercise likely to be, stretching the muscles of the hips and dispersing the fat, which yields to such active exercise. Pressing the hands against the wall the figure is raised to an upright position, and then the exercise is repeated, being careful not to become over tired.

It is good for the reduction of size to keep the knees stiff. The figure is bent forward till the tips of the fingers touch the floor. In time the size of the hips must yield to such exercise. To produce a slender figure it is when the trunk is filled. Put some tar balls or camphor into the chests, etc., and then wrap each piece of fur. In each parcel put more tar balls or camphor. It is safest to wrap these moth preparations in tissue paper because occasionally they stain a white or light skin. Fold these parcels at the end so that the paper is quite tight and there are no spaces or cracks for moths to work in. Many very particular persons paste the wrappings, but if the paper is folded under tightly and tied securely this is unnecessary.

Lay the parcels evenly in the trunk and occasionally put in more tar balls or camphor. Be sure that there is a layer of one or the other at the top and then fold over the lining paper. Lock the trunk and put it where it will not be opened during the season.

When taking out for the cold weather whip all the furs again to make them fluffy.

DOGS WEAR HUGE BOWS.

The bow fad has spread to pet dogs, and it would be about as unsafe to take a small canine around the Flatiron building in New York on a windy day as it would be to steer a ship under full sail into a cyclone. The wide bows and ends tied to Fido's back and head are such that he would go whirling off into space like an airship.

The big bow fashion for little dogs must necessarily be limited, because only long haired animals can wear the decoration in its most approved way. A short haired doggie who means because he is not in the ribbon fad may be consoled by the fact that, no other way being possible, he may sport a bow around his neck. But this utterly lacks the cachet and distinction now the rage, when the decoration is tied, child fashion, on top of the head.

Also it is put on as a sash, and the variation of arrangement depends upon the whim of the owner, but it should be said, however, for the credit of woman, that effort is made to avoid grotesqueness. Anything this side of it, however, is adopted.

There may be either one or two bows on the head, but in case only one is being worn that day the ribbon is at least four inches wide, and the bow when tied is like nothing so much as a big cap. Sometimes it suggests a whirlmill.

The only time that a comparatively small bow is worn is when it is put over the left eye, and two of the same size are adopted for a change, one before each ear.

Quite the newest thing in the fad is a sash, a bow tied around the dog's middle, the ribbon being quite the same width as that tied around its owner's waist. The sash bow is made to stand very erect, and it looks like nothing so much as a huge butterfly.

WAR AGAINST CONSUMPTION.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and insist upon having it. Drier & Bro.

SMART SUMMER COAT

Pongee, rajah and tussah coats with voluminous capelike sleeves are a distinctive feature of the summer's fashions. The best of these are in three-quarters length and hang loose and flowing from the shoulders, blending the lines of the Japanese kimono with those of the priest's surplice. This wrap illustrated is a copy in white tussah of a Drell model. The mandarin sleeve set in the extraordinary large armhole gives the effect of a cape in the back. An effective bit of color contrast is introduced in the collar and cuffs, where a half inch fold of emerald green silk is set between two rows of black silk braid. The large pearl buttons, rimmed in brass, center the back rosettes, set on the coat fronts at the bust line in a decidedly attractive way that adds much to the smartness of the garment.

Heavy Linen Fabrics Will Be Worn by Boys and Girls

Butcher Linens in White and Colored Designs Make Up Into Smart Coats and Frocks That Need No Trimming Like Sheep Materials.

By Elizabeth Lee.

The heavy, more substantial butcher linens are being revived for children's wear this season, and they are a welcome change, as the fabrics are most practical, wash well and, though heavy, are cool. Then, too, they look smart when made up with a little trimming as possible, and the simple lines are far more appropriate for construction than anything more elaborate, so that the little frocks, coats and wraps may be safely attempted by the home dressmaker.

In dresses, guimpe and jumper moires are to be preferred, both for comfort's sake and laundry saving. A pretty little frock in this style seen recently in a shop was of soft cadet blue, box pleated into the belt and hemmed on the bottom. Above the hem on each box pleat was a single wide row worked in heavy outline with linen floss. The jumper, box pleated into a band at the top, was finished there with a scalloped color of the blue, buttonholed with white, and worked with single roses, and the slashed sleeves were similarly finished. The guimpe was of fine lawn. The same thing may be carried out in a one-piece dress for small girls, box pleated from the top to long waist length, the fullness springing from the pleats forming the skirt portion, and if the embroidery should be beyond the powers of the amateur sewer, then embroidered molles could be applied. Such a frock will be smart and launder perfectly. Setting the colors, if there are checks, stripes, etc., should not be forgotten before sending to the laundry.

Coats of butcher linen are very much worn, both in white and colors. The brown shades have, of course, crept in even here and stylish box jackets in leather color are touched up with a little white linen and brown soutache, the pearl buttons by means of handsome white pearl buttons. Small boys look manly in this style of wrap topped by a leather Tam o' Shanter.

Another revival for boys' wear is the narrow trimmed conventional straw sailor with ribbon band. To boys whom they become nothing is jaunty for summer, though for some reason or another these small men prefer the round soft gray and tan hats. These may be more comfortable, but they certainly lack smartness.

In boys' suits gray appears to be a favorite color, and the box coat with the belt is newer than the belted Norfolk model; otherwise boys' styles remain stationary.

Coats and wraps of linen for girls do not differ greatly from those designed for boys, the added collar and cuffs of embroidered white pique or

Rags Prepared to Make Rugs, Carpets and Portiers

Woolens, Linens, Silks, Torn in Inch Strips, Wound Into Balls; One and One-Half Pounds Needed for a Yard of Carpet, Etc.

A weaver of rag carpets and rugs gives the following information for those who wish to change their rags into handsome rugs: "First, sort all the garments, odd pieces, etc., laying them in heaps according to their color, white in one, anything in blue predominating in second, black in a third, all remaining scraps, no matter what color, in another pile."

The next step is to tear them into strips a little over half an inch wide. It will take one and one-half pounds of these strips to make one yard of rag carpet, and after tearing these should be sewn together. Start the ends and join with an overlapping arrangement, just as you sew crinolines, to avoid a seam mark. Stockings should be cut round and round, beginning at the top of the leg, and unless a black border is desired should be sewn alternately with a color. Old flannel, cotton blankets and, in fact, woolen ones, too, make up into substantial, comfortable mats for the bathroom, while those made of blue and white rags are dainty for bedrooms.

There are a number of good dyes on the market, with instructions so clearly stated that the most amateur may expect success in the coloring, and if different tints are desired, then the rags must be dyed before going to the weaver. This rag maker will, however, supply a little coloring, if asked for, at a slight advance of his regular charge of twenty-five cents the square yard. Buying a yard or two of anything very bright or particularly pleasing will be an economy, as it need not be expensive and it will add so much to the beauty of the floor covering.

Denims and gingham make strong, practical rugs and may be mixed with pure white in the weaving.

The pile of odd colors may be dyed in one shade; that is, they may be put into the one dye pot, but, owing to the diversity of colors and fabrics, will not all come out the same shade. However, a most artistic rug will be the result when woven, and perhaps greens and browns are the best colors to be chosen. In the hall or living room such a rug will be most practical as well as restful looking.

Portieres may be woven from silk, ribbon, velvet or velours, the strips varying from three-quarters of an inch for very thin china silk to a third of an inch for heavy velours. Tinsel may be worked into the portieres if desired, and will be found effective, especially when the silks are of tans.

Roll the strips in balls weighing half a pound each, and, if this is done as lightly as possible, the rags will get thoroughly stretched. They are now

PRETTY CORSET COVERS.

One of the daintiest corset covers is made of wide flowered ribbon, lace insertions, beading and edgings, which is worn under a chiffon or fine lingerie blouse. To make a garment of this character two broad bands of pompadour taffeta are united with a strip of lace insertion. The armholes are slightly cut away and the shoulder straps formed of insertion, beading and lace edgings, further decorated with narrow ribbons tied on the shoulder. The fullness at the waist line is formed by a ribbon threaded through lace heading. To avoid bulkiness in front the heading is applied in such a manner as to bring it to the lower edge of the waist at the same time producing a full blouse effect.

FOR THE SICK ROOM.

One of the most convenient articles to be used in a sick room is a sand bag. Get some clean, fine sand, dry it thoroughly in a kettle on the stove. Make a bag about eight inches square, of flannel. Fill it with dry sand, sew the opening carefully together, and cover the bag with cotton or linen. This will prevent the sand from sifting out, and will also enable you to heat the bag quickly by placing it in the oven or even on the top of the stove, says Woman's Life.

After once using this rug will never attempt to warm the feet or hands of a sick person with a bottle of hot water or a brick.

A HINT IN MENDING.

The nicest way to mend a broken corset or dress stay is to bind the top of the stay or where it is broken with a small piece of chamois skin. The end of the stay, it will be found, will not pierce through the chamois as it frequently does through cloth.

A SIGNIFICANT PRAYER.

"May the Lord help you make Buckle's Arnica Salve known to all," writes J. G. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. "It quickly took the pain out of a felon for me and cured it in a wonderfully short time." Best on earth for sores, l. rns and wounds. 25c at Drier & Bro.'s drug store.

HER POOR BEST

By Jeanette Cooper.

Copyright, 1907, by Thomas H. McKee.

MRS. ARBUTHNOT followed Barbara to her room after luncheon and inquired, in a carefully suppressed voice, whether she had noticed how abstracted Garth was when she asked him if he'd have coffee. "He has been here hardly a week," she lamented, "and he's already thinking of his work."

"What is he doing?" inquired Barbara, leaning back luxuriously in a big chintz-covered chair and trying to look unconcerned.

"I don't know—research work, he calls it," said Mrs. Arbuthnot; and relapsed into troubled thought. When she emerged it was with a remark seemingly irrelevant.

"If Kittle Etheridge could only have come sooner," she sighed.

Barbara grasping her meaning, sat up and glanced conscientiously into the mirror, surveying her own very white skin and very blue eyes, and hair that always looked as if it had just been washed. She shook her head, trying to regret her own unavailability in her hostess's dilemma. Ordinary good looks she did not disclaim, but beauty to hold the attention of a science-mad student like Garth was not hers.

"When do you expect Kittle?" she asked, smothering her relief at escaped responsibility.

"Not for three weeks. She is making another visit first. If we could only keep him interested in something until she comes."

Barbara leaned back again, stretching her round arms comfortably above her head.

"I don't believe research work is as hard as teaching school," she said, "or he wouldn't have to have his vacations with trimmings."

Mrs. Arbuthnot looked sympathetically at the girl. "To think of the money your father left and you having to earn your own living," she said almost tearfully. "It is the saddest story."

"The story of a trustee," said Barbara, "too old to be interesting. Anyway, the work is good for me. I am a disgracefully indolent person by nature. You don't know how heavenly your big, quiet house, seems."

"And I want you to enjoy it all you can, my dear." Her kind eyes were on her guest; evidently her mind was not. "Garth thinks Kittle has a classic face," she said.

"Couldn't we hurry her up some way," suggested Barbara hopefully.

"No; everyone wants her. If we could only manage—"

Barbara wrinkled her brows with humorous resignation.

"I'll try to be a little more entertaining," she said. "But Garth never did know whether I was in the room or not, even when we were children."

"No," Mrs. Arbuthnot agreed to their lack of resources.

"If she understood how much depended on her—but we couldn't very well tell her that," Barbara's expression at last reflected her hostess's concern.

"No we couldn't do that," agreed Mrs. Arbuthnot, "but we'll try to keep him till she comes. You've a month, haven't you?"

"Yes, thanks to the measles," said Barbara. "We divided things up. The little girls have the measles and I have the vacation."

"And I want you to make the most of it," Mrs. Arbuthnot regarded the girl with affectionate eyes. "I shall not bother you with any more of my worries. Do you suppose Garth would like a fruit pudding for dinner?"

"I'm sure he would," laughed Barbara. "I know a fruit pudding would make me forget research work."

"Garth!" said Barbara. She was in her favorite corner of the library and Garth, after telling her how terribly behind his work was getting, had wandered off into the lighted end of the room and was taking the books from the shelves and returning them in an abstracted sort of way. Another week had gone, and it was more than evident that he was straining at his tether.

"What is it, Barbara?" he said, pausing with his hand on another book. But Barbara, after speaking his name, had relapsed into silence. She was wearing the expression of a humorous martyr, but that he could not see, even after he strolled over and stood before her, politely requesting the conclusion of her speech. She was quite deliberate about making it.

"You never knew, did you," she said with a queer little quaver in her voice, "that I was in love with you?"

Mr. Arbuthnot knit his brows.

"What do you mean, Barbara?" he demanded.

"Just what I say," she repeated softly, "that you never knew I was in love with you?"

"Why, Barbara," he began, in a tone kindly but uncomfortable.

"Oh I am not in love with you now," reassurance in her voice. "Don't let it worry you."

"It doesn't worry me in the least, only astonishes me. You've always had the name of not caring for anyone, you know. There was that man from New Orleans—"

He was evidently groping in his memory for the time when Barbara's actions might have warned him of her tender feelings.

Barbara laughed a little. "I didn't know you no-

Head such things," she said.

"Oh, I always kept a brotherly eye on your affairs when you lived next door."

She laughed again with real amusement. "Why, Garth Arbuthnot! You never knew whether I was next door or not. You were always absorbed in something or other. It may have been your indifference—"

Garth waited for her to finish this, but as it had never been intended to be finished he waited in vain.

quering gaze, "will you kindly give me a hint as to what has happened in the past week that could be considered amusing?"

"Let me see," said Barbara. "Last night we discussed art, politics, and religion, didn't we? At least I discussed and you went to sleep—metaphorically only," at a gesture of protest from him. "The night before, we—"

"Are you explaining why you laughed?" he said.

"No," Barbara shook her head. "I don't believe, veloped so that she now plans to wait in the dining-room for the next meal."

Mrs. Arbuthnot beamed at her son. He had not previously displayed any impatience with her staying out of his way.

"Ungrateful!" said Barbara. "Who played a Chopin accompaniment to your dreams last evening? Who listened politely to an article on the Science of Something or Other this morning? Who—"

"Weren't you interested in that?" demanded Garth.

"Not in the least," said Barbara decidedly.

He looked chagrined. "Why did you listen to it?"

"To give you the pleasure of reading it."

"But Barbara—" began Mrs. Arbuthnot reprovingly.

"That's right, mother," said Garth. "Somebody ought to tell her what she is, and I can't."

Mrs. Arbuthnot was looking as reproachful as was possible for her.

"I don't see, my dear," she said plaintively, "why you needed to tell him you weren't interested."

Barbara broke into a laugh and Garth joined her.

Mrs. Arbuthnot, pleased but puzzled, looked from one to the other.

"Which of these recipes am I going to make, Mrs. Arbuthnot?" said Mary Ann.

"Make them all, Mary Ann," said Barbara; "I love cookies."

"So do I, Mary Ann," said Garth.

"We were trying, my son," said Mrs. Arbuthnot, "to decide which of these it was you were so fond of last year."

"Read the recipes to him, Mary Ann," cried Barbara. "Let's see whether he'll be polite enough to listen."

"I'm going out immediately," said Garth.

"Oh! oh!" cried Barbara, "both rude and untruthful."

"It is the truth," said Garth. "I am going to walk and you are coming with me."

"Whether I like it or not?" queried Barbara, leaning back in her window seat.

"Yes. I shall enjoy it," said Garth.

and her most becoming could not have made her to shine with even candle radiance beside the astonishing gold and white and rose-colored loveliness of Miss Etheridge. They had a very gay evening. Kittle played and sang and told, in the most charmingly confidential ways, all the nice things that people had said to her at the house-party, and Mrs. Arbuthnot, with the smile of assured repose and one eye on her son, coaxed her to tell more. Garth sat in silence, his smiling gaze on Kittle's classic face. Barbara, after giving a generous amount of what good manners required, slipped back into the library, for after all Kittle was their friend, not hers, and since she herself was leaving in a day or two, it seemed hardly necessary to cultivate the acquaintance.

"Moreover, you were only cultivating envy and all uncharitableness by staying," she told herself, as she settled back in the big, deep chair. "You were getting surer and surer that you could not live happy without a gray broadcloth trimmed with silver fur, and yellow hair with a wave in it. It was wisest for you to retire from that glittering scene, Barbara, and meditate upon the mutability of material joys."

She had meditated for something like half an hour when Garth stood before her.

"What are you doing in here?" he demanded.

"Nothing," said Barbara truthfully.

He drew up a chair and sat down, leaning his head back so that he looked at her from beneath lowered lids.

"I want to know, Barbara," he began—

"Garth, for gracious sake, go back to the drawing-room!" cried Barbara.

"What for?"

"Why, because Kittle's there, of course. Your mother will get to worrying again. Go back immediately." She leaned forward in her earnestness.

"Why will it worry mother to have me in here with you?"

"It isn't that—it is simply that you are not entertaining Kittle. She is quite the most wonderfully pretty girl I ever saw, Garth. You will stay, of course, while she is here. Your mother will be so—"

Garth leaned forward too, which brought his dark eyes close to her blue ones.

"The length of my stay," he said, "does not depend upon Kittle. I shall stay as long as you do and no longer."

"But you know I must get back to work, and Kittle—"

"And you know that the one thing I want to do is to work for you." He reached out and took both of her hands. "I don't see what Kittle has to do with it," he said. "It is you I want."

"Oh, Garth!" cried Barbara, trying to pull away her hands. "It is just because I made you think I was in love with you and so you tried—"

"Don't talk nonsense, Barbara," he said abruptly. "Do you suppose a man of my age knows whether he is in love or not. I believe I always loved you. I guess it was sub-conscious, but anyway I'm sure it was there."

"But, Garth," Barbara was talking low and fast, trying to explain. "I made that up. It wasn't really

"I DON'T SEE WHAT KITIE HAS TO DO WITH IT," HE SAID.

"Was it before you went away to school?" he said.

"It is not for me to tell you," said Barbara decidedly. "It is very unflattering that you cannot recall any occasions that might locate the time for you."

As she could not recall any herself this was distinctly unfair.

He remained standing before her, a puzzled scowl on his face.

"We were together a good deal that summer after I came home from Europe the first time, weren't we?" he said.

Her enjoyment bubbled out again.

"Not that I remember," she responded promptly. "That professor from Munich was there all summer. You never looked across the hedge."

"Is that so? He was a wonderful chap, that professor. I must look him up when I go over again."

"I would," said Miss Grant.

Garth's meditative gaze came back to her.

"That vacation before my senior year," he began in a tone indicative of having at last struck a trail. "That was the time we were so devoted to going up the river in little canoes in the twilight." He looked down at her with tentative triumph. She returned the look demurely.

"You may have spent your twilights in a little canoe that summer," she said. "I spent mine in the Adirondacks."

It was quite ten minutes later, when Garth had gone back to the bookshelves, that a delightfully irrepressible peal of laughter came from Barbara's dusky corner.

"What are you laughing at, Barbara?" he demanded, amused irritation in his voice.

"I was thinking," said Barbara, "of the past week."

"Well," said Garth, towering over her with in-after all, I can explain that. You wouldn't understand it, and if you should, it would spoil the joke."

Mr. Arbuthnot was scowling. "You used not to deal in half meanings, this way," he said.

"You don't know at all what I used to do, Garth," she responded. "You really know no more about me than if we had just been introduced. Come on into the other room. Your mother is going to show me her photographs of Kittle Etheridge."

Barbara sat in the sunny window-seat in the dining room, an expression of deep interest upon her countenance. Mrs. Arbuthnot, still sitting behind the silver coffee urn, and Mary Ann, standing just inside the swing door, were carrying on an antiphonal exercise with the cook books. The subject related to certain cookies which had been approved by Garth on a previous visit.

"One cup butter, two cups sugar, three eggs," chanted Mary Ann, "one-half cup citron—"

Garth doesn't like citron," said Garth's mother.

"Listen to this: One and one-fourth cups sugar, one cup butter, six eggs, one cup hickory nut meats—"

Mary Ann interrupted promptly in her turn. "You can't get decent hickory nuts. One and one-half pounds sugar, one and one-fourth pounds melted butter, five eggs—"

"Too rich. This sounds more like it: One cup butter, one and one-half cups—"

"Here!" Mary Ann planted her fat forefinger in the middle of the next page and burst into another recitative.

Garth came to the door and looked in, at his mother's do-or-die expression and at Barbara's serious mouth and mocking eyes.

"What's up?" he said. "Why don't you people come into the other room? Has Barbara's indolence de-

"Do go, my dear," urged Mrs. Arbuthnot. "Garth loves to walk and it is stupid walking alone. When Kittle comes—"

Barbara rose, the mocking laughter deepening in her eyes.

"I am at your service, Mr. Arbuthnot," she said.

Garth looked at her with speculative gaze as they went down the steps together.

"You are a most puzzling young woman, Barbara," he said. "You had quite made up your mind not to come for a walk. I could see that; and then without any reason for changing your mind, you did change it."

"I was suddenly reminded of the unavoidable absence of the leading lady," said Barbara.

Garth stopped still in the street to look at her. Then he caught her arm to turn her down an attractive side-street.

"We will walk until your conversation becomes rational," he said.

Kittle had come. She sat in the drawing-room, talking, laughing, jumping up to examine something new, giving little exclamations of pleasure over being there, touching Mrs. Arbuthnot caressingly, and bestowing glances friendly, coquettish, indifferent—all kinds of glances—upon Garth. Mrs. Arbuthnot smiling, placid, had the air of one who, at last, shares responsibility with capable hands. Blucher had arrived in the most charming of gowns and hats.

Barbara, blinking her blue eyes in the light, came in from the dusky library. She had on a dress just not too shabby to be allowable. She had selected it after wavering in what she called a foolish manner over more becoming costumes. She was glad of her decision when she saw Kitty for her best would have been even as the one she wore, beside Kittle's.

"WHAT ARE YOU LAUGHING AT? HE ASKED."

an untruth, because I never said I had loved you. I only said you never knew I had, which was true.

Garth did not stop to argue this point in ethics, though had it come to a discussion his opinion would have differed greatly from hers.

"That is all quite beside the question, Barbara," he said. "I love you and I am going to marry you." He pulled her toward him and put his arms about her.

"But can't you understand?" she protested with her face against his shoulder. "It is just as if I had schemed to get you. You never would have thought of me if—"

"Don't say that again. I have always thought of you."

"I only did it," Barbara was still explaining in muffled tones, "because your mother wanted to keep you till Kittle came and I knew nothing interested you except research work."

He held her back to look in her face and shook her gently.

"Do you love me?" he said.

She dropped her shamed eyes and he drew her back to him again with a contented laugh.

"How long, Barbara?" he said.

"I don't know," said Barbara with her eyes hidden again. "I didn't know it until Kittle came."

NEXT WEEK, "A Gentleman" by Owen Oliver.

STAGE AMUSEMENTS

AT THE MAJESTIC

Tonight—"Across the Desert."
Monday Matinee and Night—"The Pulse of New York."
Tuesday Matinee and Night—"The Divorce Question."
Wednesday Matinee and Night—"When the Bell Tolls."
Thursday Matinee and Night—"Felecia," or "Mother and Son."
Friday Matinee and Night—"Camille."
Saturday Matinee and Night—"Younger Brothers."

SECOND WEEK OF REPERTOIRE—ALL NEW PLAYS.

Of surpassing interest is the play which will augment the second week's engagement of the Van Dyke and Eaton company at the "Majestic." Tonight the American comedy drama dealing with life in the far west, "Across the Desert," will be the bill.

Starting Monday (matinee and night) "The Pulse of New York," a charming love story, threads its way through the somewhat intricate plot and the scenes and situations are said to be well drawn and entirely possible. On Monday (both performances) Miss Eaton will appear in her $1,500 "Mother of Pearl" gown.

On Tuesday a roaring farce comedy, "The Divorce Question," (written for laughing purposes only.) The play deals with the trials and tribulations of a very "jealous wife" and a "hen-pecked" husband. The play is pure and simple and said to be a genuine "laugh producer."

On Wednesday "When the Bell Tolls," a high-class drama of the "society" nature will be presented.

On Thursday—"Felecia," or "Mother and Son," the great heart story, a play true to life and one that is sure to please old and young.

On Friday—"Camille" teaching a great moral story in the fate of a coquette, and special attention is given to the costuming. Miss Eaton in the title role has won a name for cleverness in the production, her gowns are most beautiful.

On Saturday afternoon, a splendid comedy drama of life in the far west—"A Cowboy's Girl."

On Saturday night the great sensational drama, "The Younger Brothers," dealing with the life and career of "Bob and Cole," younger "pals" of Frank and Jesse James or the notorious James boys of Missouri.

The specialties given between acts by the Van Dyke and Eaton company are alone worth the prices of admission, which are 10c and 20c for matinees, and 10c, 20c and 30c for the evenings.

WILL SET STAGE

In Full View of Audience at the "Majestic."

The people of Fort Wayne will be given an unusual opportunity at the "Majestic" theater on next Tuesday, matinee and night, when the Van Dyke & Eaton company will present "The Divorce Question." It has been arranged to have the curtain run up at promptly 2 p. m. and 8 p. m., with the stage entirely bare from curtain line to back wall. Then in full view of the audience the stage force will set the stage for the first act. This is something but few people have ever had the privilege of seeing and will be a treat to those who know little about the theater.

"$1,500 GOWN."

The "mother of pearl" robe worn by Miss Ollie at the "Majestic" on Monday (matinee and night) in "The Pulse of New York," was designed by Gustave Baur, Paris. The foundation is of soft liberty station, veiled with chiffon, which falls in billowy folds about the feet. The lace overdress is covered with thousands of "mother of pearl" sequins, which shed a soft opalescent light. Falling from the shoulders are festoons of sequins and the drapery is caught up on the left shoulder with a bunch of pale yellow roses.

LEW FIELDS' ALL STAR COMPANY, MAJESTIC, MAY 22.

George Beban, the Count de Rectori (a burlesque of Count Boni de Castellane, Anna Gould's divorced husband) was last seen here with Marie Cahill and again in "Fantana." He is the best exponent of eccentric Frenchmen on the stage and is giving Lew Fields splendid support this season in "About Town."

Ernest Lambert, the duke of Ehwattington, with the Lew Fields company, was brought to this country by the Messrs. Shubert and Mr. Fields for the production of "About Town."

The shipping rope dance by the eight English Primroses, which opens the first act of Lew Fields' production of "About Town," is one of the novel features of the entertainment.

Peter F. Dalloy, as round and amusing as ever, has three songs, assisted by his usual chorus of pretty girls, in Lew Fields' production of "About Town." Mr. Dalloy still looks like his picture on the boxes of cigars bearing his name.

Lew Fields, today regarded as America's foremost low comedian, began his stage career twenty-nine years ago, with his boy chum, Joseph Welser. They did thirty-two turns a day at a Bowery music hall in New York for a salary of $3 per week. Today each is rated as a millionaire.

Louise Dresser, one of the stars of the Lew Fields' company in "About Town," is the adopted daughter of the late Paul Dresser, and as such she first sang and popularized his famous song, "On the Banks of the Wabash." She is said to be one of the most beautiful women on the stage today.

Lew Fields, who heads his own all-star company in "About Town," the musical play shortly to be seen here, last week refused an offer to appear in vaudeville at $3,500 a week for forty consecutive weeks, twenty weeks of which he would be allowed to play in New York city. This is a compensation of $140,000 for forty weeks' work, whereas President Roosevelt only receives $50,000 for fifty-two weeks' work, and the chief justice of the United States supreme court only $10,500 per year. Mr. Fields is refusing the offer, wired: "I prefer to head my own company. It's easy to break into vaudeville but mighty hard to break out. Just like a penitentiary."

Blanche Ring, one of the leading members of the Lew Fields' all-star company, shortly to be seen here, has probably popularized more songs than any young woman now before the public. She has been responsible for "The Good Old Summer Time," "Be-De-De," "My Irish Molly, O," "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," No comedienne is better liked in New York than Blanche Ring.

Harry Fisher, of the Lew Fields company, will be remembered here in "It Happened in Norkland" last year, as the man whom Fields described as "that fat fellow with the skinny face."

When your back aches it is almost invariably an indication that something is wrong with your kidneys. Weak, disordered kidneys frequently cause a break down of the entire system. DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills afford prompt relief for weak kidneys, backache, inflammation of the bladder and all urinary troubles. Sold by all druggists.

Real estate values in New York city, according to the assessment gures, are increasing $1,096,970 each day.

For stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Many remarkable cures have been effected by them. Price 25 cents. Sample free. For sale by all druggists.

AT THE MAJESTIC TONIGHT.

LAST WEEK BUT ONE OF VAUDEVILLE

Temple Now Entering the Home Stretch With One of the Best Laughing Bills of the season—All Star Comedy Acts.

Manager Slouder promises to make good his assertion that the best bill of the season were reserved for the closing weeks and judging from the appearances the statement bears the earmarks of truth. The Temple has been packed every night this week for the current bill, which has made a tremendous hit and notwithstanding the fact warm weather housecleaning and other free entertainments had set in, the public are quick to judge merit and prefer paying real money to see a good show than idle away their time, even though they could see a bad one for nothing.

The bill opening Monday afternoon next is constructed for laughing purposes only, every act on the program being a comedy act and every one reputed to be the best in its line on the boards. The Western Vaudeville Managers' Association have taken pleasure in giving Fort Wayne good shows for they know the public are appreciative and in arranging this bill they close their correspondence with the local management in the following terms which explains itself: "This should give you one of the best shows you have had this season."

Heading next week's bill direct from the Columbia Theatre, Cincinnati, are Snyder and Buckley, musical comedians in their new act, "The Street Musician," concluding with their own original novelty, The Mechanical Minstrels. This is the highest priced musical act ever played in Fort Wayne.

Another big act coming direct from the Majestic, Chicago, is the latest laughing success, "The Good Ship Nancy Lee," as performed by Gilroy, Haynes and Montgomery.

The famous DeGraw Trio, acrobatic comedians and comedy acrobats in their latest creation, "Foxy Grandpa and the Two Bad Boys," seen here earlier in the season as a headliner, have been re-engaged for another week and come direct from the big Orpheum Circuit.

Connelly and Kline are high-class comedians with a hot budget of new stuff and make a hit with some clever manipulation on the piano. They come here direct from St. Louis.

Ed and Kitty Deagan are the real comedy entertainers and will present "The Dutch Girl and the Hall Room Boy." This team made a big hit here last season.

Bertha Meyer will render two new illustrated songs and the motion picture man will unveil "A Voyage Around a Star," "Her Morning Dip" and "The Inexperienced Chauffeur." Everybody goes to the Temple where you are always assured of seeing the real article in the way of Vaudeville.

WILL REPORT INCREASE.

Committee Will Recommend License for Saloons of $150.

Provided a compromise reached by the council committee on rules, regulations and ordinances is accepted by the council Tuesday night the saloon license will be increased from $100 to $150 instead of $250 as provided in Mr. Henry's ordinance. A second meeting was held last night and under pressure the committee agreed upon the lower figure. The measure will become effective a year from its passage.

The coal dealers were represented by William Kaough and George H. Krudon and they will be given a hearing when the coal weighing ordinance is brought up for passage.

The committee on claims refused John Bothner's application for a refund on his unexpired saloon license.

GOOD WORDS FOR CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

People everywhere take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips, of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you that I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl, Catherine, who is two years old, has been taking this remedy whenever she has had a cold since she was two months old. About a month ago I contracted a dreadful cold myself, but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon as well as ever." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

—Luncheon—
Ham Salad, Baked Potatoes.
Olives, Boston Brown Bread.
"Colonial" Gingerbread.
Tea.

—Dinner—
Cream of Asparagus Soup.
Roast Veal with Brown Gravy.
Baked Whitefish with Lemon and Parsley.
Old-Fashioned Lettuce Salad.
Mashed Potatoes.
Spinach with Kale, Lemon Pie.
Cheese, Coffee.

Cracker Omelet—Let one cup of milk come to a boil, pour it over one teaspoonful of cracker crumbs and let it stand a few minutes; break six eggs into a bowl and stir (not beat) until well mixed; then add the milk and bread; season with pepper and salt, mix all well together and turn into a hot frying pan containing a large spoonful of butter being hot; fry the omelet slowly, and when brown on the bottom cut in squares and turn again, fry to a delicate brown and serve hot. (White House Cook Book.)

"Colonial" Gingerbread—Put a cupful of New Orleans molasses in a mixing bowl with half a cupful of butter and half a cupful of sugar; over this pour a cupful of boiling water in which a level dessert-spoonful of soda has already been dissolved; stir well and let the mixture cool; then add a cupful of chopped walnuts and a cupful of seeded raisins, a teaspoon each of cinnamon and ginger, two and a half cupfuls of flour and, lastly, two well-beaten eggs; bake in a shallow pan and serve while still warm from the oven.

Pineapple Preserves—After carefully paring the pineapples, cut in slices and then weigh; to each pound of fruit add a teaspoon of water; put in a little cover and allow them to boil gently until tender; remove from water to a dish by means of a skimmer; add to the water in the kettle a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit; when dissolved add the pineapples and let them boil gently until transparent throughout; then add a glass jar of sirup, boil until thick and rich and then pour it over the pineapple preserves.

Cream of Asparagus Soup—One can of four lunches of asparagus, one pint of white soup stock, one pint cream, two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon chopped onion, two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon sugar, one and one-half teaspoons of salt, one-eighth teaspoon white pepper. Cut off and lay aside asparagus tips, cut stalks in short pieces and stew in soup stock. Cook onion and butter slowly for ten minutes, add flour and stir until smooth. Add this with sugar, salt and pepper to asparagus and cream. Simmer fifteen minutes. Rub through sieve, return to stewpan, add cream and asparagus tips and after boiling up once serve without delay.

A Good Lemon Pie—Bake a nice brown under crust and fill in with the following dressing: Put on to boil two scant cups of water with one cup of sugar. Then add butty, rind of a walnut and a pinch of salt. Squeeze and strain the juice of one large lemon or two very small lemons and add this with a little of the grated rind to the sugar and water. Beat up the yolks of two eggs and mix with them two heaping tablespoons of cornstarch which has been previously dissolved in cold water. Add this to the mixture on the stove and boil until like a thick custard. Pour it into the baked crust and over it spread the excess of the grated rind to the sugar and water. Beat up the yolks of two eggs and mix with them two heaping tablespoons of cornstarch which has been previously dissolved in cold water. Add this to the mixture on the stove and boil until like a thick custard. Pour it into the baked crust and over it spread the excess of the grated rind to the sugar and water. BUY NOW IN FOREST PARK

WHY YOU SHOULD DO IT NOW

THERE ARE MANY REASONS why you should get busy and select a home-site in "The only big addition to the city that is actually doing things."

HUNDREDS of the best citizens of Fort Wayne and vicinity have already bought. You know who they are. Their names have been published.

MANY of these have already built residences in the addition or are getting ready to do so. The names of these were printed in the papers last week. All of them are the kind you'd like to have for neighbors.

THE ADDITION has two good car lines. Take either the Spy Run or the Lakeside line.

RESIDENTS have the advantage of the nearness of the Lakeside school.

THE FOREST PARK COMPANY places a cement walk FREE in front of each lot. Think what that means to the purchaser.

THE COMPANY places shade trees FREE in front of each lot. Isn't that an inducement?

THE PRICES are low. ($250 to $475.)

THE TERMS are easy. ($10 down and $5 a month).

DEEP WELLS have been sunk in all parts of the addition to supply free well water to all.

THERE IS A BUILDING LINE to prevent your neighbors from building against the street and injuring the value of your property.

FOREST PARK will always be a splendid place in which to live. It is clean, beautifully located, convenient to down town.

ALTHOUGH hundreds of lots have already been sold, yet there are hundreds left. Forest Park is of immense size—the biggest addition ever made to the city of Fort Wayne.

SEE FOREST PARK tomorrow—or as soon as you can. You will find the walk pleasant, even if you are not interested in buying.

"Perfect in Quality."

Can You Improve It?

We have tried, are trying, to improve the quality of our bread and rolls—not that we are ashamed of it, but that we want to make it even better than it is. That's why it's as good as it is. Haffner's Malt Bread has reached the goal, and the quality cannot be beaten.

FRIGHTFUL RIDE WITH AN AVALANCHE

Miraculous Escape of An American Missionary on the Persian Border Described—Letter from Miss Lillie Beaber, of Tabriz.

A letter to The Sentinel from Miss Lillie Beaber, a Fort Wayne woman who has long been in charge of a girls' school at Tabriz, Persia, announces that she does not expect to be in that country after April of next year. She encloses an extract from a letter by one of the members of the American Christian mission at Tabriz describing his remarkable escape from death in an avalanche on the Turkish border. Miss Beaber also sends a copy of a new newspaper published at Tabriz under the recent privileges granted to the people. It is a rather crude periodical of which the text is partly Persian, partly Turkish and partly Arabic. It contains some fairly well-executed caricatures on political matters. Miss Beaber writes that the newspaper, which is called "Azerbijan," is doing a great deal for reform. It is the only illustrated newspaper or periodical published in that province.

Rev. McDowell's Escape.
The extract from the letter of Rev. E. W. McDowell, written from Van, Turkey, January 19, this year, is as follows:

Rev. McDowell's Escape.
I left Tekhuma Friday, Jan. 4, with an escort of over thirty men. I dismissed as many as possible on the mountain side above Kham, a number, however, of their own accord going on with me, as they had business of their own in Julamerk. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon we reached the top of the mountain overlooking Tai and in a few minutes began the descent. Nineteen of us had just started, six not yet having stepped off the top, when there was an avalanche and the nineteen of us were hurled to the bottom of the mountain. One man was lost, three others were buried, but were dug out unhurt. One man had a shoulder dislocated. Aside from these casualties there were no serious injuries to any of the party. My own injuries were confined to a bruised and sprained knee and the fracture of two ribs. It was a terrible experience and not easily described. With Kasha Yukhannon, Rabi Nisan and Sahdi I was following the men who had opened the road. At the top the mountain is so steep that I was unable to keep on my feet and had fallen and was still on my back when there was a crash as the field of snow broke loose from its moorings. I had a flash-like glimpse of the whole side of the mountain in motion. Rabi Nisan called out, "Sahib, tiklan." (Sir, we are lost!) There was a sensation as though falling through space, a gale of wind struck us in the face and a cloud of snow shut out the world. There was a succession of rapid wave-like motions and then the snow began to break up. In spite of all my efforts to keep on the surface I was drawn under and the snow, like a torrent of water, surged over and around me. As helpless as a pebble in a flood, I was rolled and tum-bled along inside the avalanche, I can recall several heavy jolts, as though from falls.

A Struggle for Breath.
Once my body was bent forward on my legs until I thought my back was about to break. But finally all other sensations were lost in the struggle for breath, as my mouth filled up with snow. At what seemed to me the point of suffocation there was a sudden slowing up of the motion of the avalanche and I found myself lying on the surface of the snow. Frantically, but with difficulty, I emptied my mouth of snow and recovered my breath. I think that I was on my feet before I did this, in instinctive desire to escape from peril. As I stood there I looked up the mountain along the track of the avalanche and I can describe my feelings only as one of fear and amazement as I saw the men, whom we but a moment before had left standing on top of the mountain, still standing there against the clear sky, but scarcely discernible as men, so great was the distance, and I had come that distance in less than two minutes. Kasha Yukhannon, on a previous trip, had timed himself by watch, and he said that it was two hours fast walking from the point where I had landed to the top of the avalanche. It was the opinion of all, including those who remained at the top, that the time occupied in our descent was not more than two minutes. I had come the farthest of the whole party. How it was that no more lives were lost and especially that no bones were broken was marvelous. The villagers regarded it as simply a miracle, as the proportion, according to all precedent, should have been the other way. And it is with humble gratitude that I acknowledge God's hand in our remarkable preservation.

Sees God's Hand Again.

When I rose to my feet I was swathed in snow from head to foot. The snow had been forced into my pockets and inside all my clothing. I was hatless and my hair was matted with ice. The sun had set behind the mountain and the icy wind raised by the avalanche was congealing me when God's care was again manifest, for lying on the snow not ten feet away was my heavy overcoat. Sahda had been carrying it and he came out way above, but the overcoat had been brought down to me. I threw that over my head and beat my blood into circulation and looked around for the others. There were two or three men near me and in answer to my inquiries they said that all the others were lost. I then saw Rabi Nisan some distance above, still shaking the snow, and I called to him with reference to the rest of the party, and he answered to the same effect. Soon, however, others came down from above and brought some reassuring word. Kasha Yukhannon.

Sahda and others had come out a half mile or more above, and under the direction of Kasha were busy rescuing those who were partly buried. The only sign of one man was his hand, only the elbow of another man appeared, and a third man was found with just his foot appearing. Those were all dug out with some difficulty and as it was thought that all were accounted for they came down to the village. There, on calling the roll, it was discovered that one of the porters was missing. Three of the six men at the top of the mountain were porters.

Had Fled in Terror.

They were terrified and without waiting to learn the extent of the catastrophe fled to Tekhuma to report, we presumed, the loss of the whole party. The others, as soon as the air cleared, came down and joined the rescue party. All our loads were left on the mountain side and top, and along with the others I slept that night on the floor under the kurti, which was a blessing to be devoutly grateful for. Aside from drying our clothes, which were wet through, the heat, I presume, was the best possible treatment for our bruised and sprained bodies. There was not much sleeping that night, although the villagers did all in their power to make us comfortable. The next morning we were all able to limp around, though with many a groan, and as soon as possible a party of men from Ribat, under the direction of Kasha Yohannon, who did splendid service, was sent up to search for the missing man. Not a trace was found, though the snow was carefully probed. He will probably not be found until spring. A man was sent to Tekhuma to tell the truth and prevent a panic. Our loads were brought down, some of them having been dug out from under the snow, and on the evening of the same day, Saturday, we went down to BeKurl. I hobbled part of the way and part of the way was carried pick-a-back by two strong young fellows whom I hired to help me through to Julamerk.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and astringent. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Sassafras root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Sassafras root, Queen's root and Black Cherry-bark in promoting digestion and building up the body and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will, however, subdue chronic coughs, bronchitis, and throat and lung affections, and it is in the lingering hang-over coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon subacute disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (inflammation of the stomach). It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of constipation (theatrical and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scurfous swellings and old sores or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—means Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. DEAFNESS CURED.

The new treatment for ear diseases introduced by Dr. Wells is producing most gratifying results. He is curing many cases that have resisted all other treatments. This treatment will cure ten to one more cases of discharging ears than the old method of treating these cases. The following is an example of many similar cases treated by Dr. Wells: "I had a discharging ear for several years, following an attack of the measles. It was accompanied by deafness, pain in the head and unpleasant noises in the ear. I was cured by Dr. Wells in 2 short time. The discharge stopped after the third treatment, the noises and pains ceased, and I can now hear as good as I ever could."

Woman's Nightmare

No woman's happiness can be complete without children; it is her nature to love and want them as much as it is to love the beautiful and pure.

The critical ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so fraught with dread, pain, suffering and danger, that the very thought of it fills her with apprehension and horror. There is no necessity for the reproduction of life to be either painful or dangerous. The use of Mother's Friend so prepares the system for the coming event that it is safely passed without any danger. This great and wonderful remedy is always applied externally, and has carried thousands of women through the trying crisis without suffering.

WHISKY'S EFFECT.

Does Not Give Strength to the Body.

Some people, when tired, take intoxicating liquors, feel less weary and so think the drink has given them strength. What the alcohol in the liquor really does is to deaden the feeling of tiredness. When the deadening effect has passed away they are more tired than ever. Even Sir Michael Foster, who is not generally considered a particular friend of the teetotal movement, says: "It (a glass of beer, or wine or spirits) does not give any fresh strength; it whips up the strength given by real food." Sir Frederick Treves says: "As a work producer, alcohol is exceedingly extravagant, and, like other extravagant measures, it is apt to lead to a physical bankruptcy. It is well known that troops cannot march on alcohol. I was with the relief column that moved on to Ladysmith. It was an extremely trying time, apart from the heat of the weather. In that column of some 30,000 men, the first who dropped out were not the tall men, or the short men, or the big men, or the little men—but the drinkers, and they dropped out as clearly as if they had been labeled with a big letter on their backs."

Consistent Temperance Reformer.

The late Archbishop Temple was an ardent temperance reformer. He grasped the true significance of the temperance movement in a way that gave him an unbounded confidence in its ultimate triumph and an unflagging zeal in the prosecution of the work. His thought and practice were so perfectly harmonious as to commend them to every right thinking man. His own views in this respect are clearly set forth in his own words: "I have been for years a teetotaler, because I have long ago learned the difference in dealing with my fellowmen between 'Come along' and 'Go along.' I have long ago learned that if you want to lead men you must put yourself at their head, and that it is no use to point out the path and say: 'I am going a road that is good for me, but you go the road that is good for you.' If you really desire to lead them, you must lead them in person and not simply in precept."

Doctors Against Alcohol.

"L'Abstinence," a French temperance journal, has done good service to the cause it advocates by publishing the testimonies against alcohol given by medical men of eminence. They are quoted from the French journal "Matin," which has placed them before the public with the view of forwarding the movement in France against abstinence, and in the hope that ultimately the goal of prohibition may be reached. The first cited is Prof. Dobove, doyen of the medical faculty, and his words are an epitome of the rest: "I have fought all my life against alcoholism; it is the great evil of our epoch. To raise the tax on the drinks that produce these evils is good; to suppress their consumption altogether would be better."

Temperance in Great Britain.

At the great British national temperance convention held in St. Andrew's hall, Glasgow, recently, about 2,000 delegates being present, strong resolutions were passed in favor of "local option," and others, even more forceful, against any form of governmental supervision or proprietorship. There has never been held a convention in any part of Great Britain so varied in its constituent elements and so united in its aim. Conservatives, Home Rulers, Liberals and Socialists sat side by side. Dissenters and members of the Church of England worked hand in hand. A majority of the members were laboring men, now a few reformed men. Joined with these were officers of civil municipalities and pastors of large city churches.

Crusade Against Tobacco.

The crusade against tobacco as well as liquor is spreading. The Syracuse university distributes yearly about 1,000 scholarships, but Chancellor Day has announced that none of these scholarships will be given to students who use tobacco or attend theaters. He declares that: "Young men who can afford to pay for needless luxuries and indulgences can afford to pay for their tuition." He concludes by making this pertinent statement: "The man who uses tobacco is a fool, at least in this particular. He ought to take better care of his nerves and make a cleaner exhibit of himself."

Temperance Pledge in England.

The pledge has not been made the weapon of temperance evangelism in America so much as in England. There seems to be a larger emphasis in this country upon legislation and prohibitory measures than upon the reclamation of the individual. No doubt the anti-saloon movements of America are seizing the idea nearer its center than it has yet been conceived in Germany and the United Kingdom. The eradication of the saloon is a root-and-branch method that assures results once it has been made practicable by the support and endorsement of the electorate.

THE MAN AT THE GATE

Text—Acts 3:6: "In the Name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, Walk."

(From the Christian Herald.)

The real secret of Pentecost is found after what is generally termed Pentecost is past. More of the principles of Pentecost are found in the third chapter of Acts than in the second. The strength of a great movement must be measured not during the stages of preparation, nor when it glitters with brilliancy of popular enthusiasm. The normal standard of a settled, continuous aggressiveness marks the real strength that has been gained. It is not the great isolated deed of one man on a special occasion that marks the man's value to God or humanity, but what his normal average life is. If there is not a high average, the special event arouses suspicion.

The greatness of Peter's reformation, his baptism of the Holy Spirit, and the reality of a new and fixed purpose is best revealed in the third chapter of Acts, in the performance of a simple deed which in its spiritual and practical application lies within the possibility of all Christian workers. Peter, in his relation to this one man lying helpless and lost at the gate of the temple, reveals three foundation principles for evangelism more clearly than can be found in any other portion of the Bible. One can scarcely think of a single relation either to God or man that is overlooked in this modest deed which has been so long overshadowed by Pentecost.

Three Basic Principles.

The three foundation principles are therefore worthy of the closest study as applying to present movements. They have also an application to every life that calls itself Christian. We find here, first, the aim; second, the method, and third, the result of a truly God-inspired work.

The aim. I want to hold this poor, lonely, neglected, helpless beggar, lame from his birth, before Christendom as the supreme aim of every effort to extend God's kingdom. This man represents a class to be met and a condition to be overcome. He is also right at hand. There is nothing theoretical here.

There is possibly more confusion about the aim of evangelism than anything else. Every movement has some aim, and the aims are as abundant as the movements themselves. And then sometimes the aim is the real aim. Among the many things aimed at I may mention the following: Some say the supreme need of the time is a baptism of the Holy Ghost. We must therefore stop our machinery and wait. Others say a revival of prayer is needed above all things. Still others, a willingness to do personal work. Some feel the great need is the quickening of their particular church, and not a few are found among the denominational leaders who, if closely questioned, will sometimes secretly admit that their supreme desire is to see their denomination throbb once more with fervor and efficiency. There are not a few denominationalists who still hold the conviction expressed in my hearing by one in New York. He said: "We felt we were the special custodians of God's revelations."

The Aim to Save Men.

Of course, the aim of all such, if to reach the world, is to do it through their own channel. Such a statement always makes others suspicious that the agent is exalted beyond the aim. When I came to New York two years ago to take some part in a proposed non-sectarian movement to reach the people with the gospel of Christ, at once the report was circulated, which I had to combat, that "this man is the agent of Presbyterianism and he seeks supremely the advancement of his denomination." This damaging report came very near blocking a movement of God which sought solely the interest of this "man at the gate," and which aimed to make every other aim, no matter how precious, secondary. But should we not seek the baptism of the Holy Ghost and give ourselves to prayer? You may put it either way: We need to be baptized with the Holy Spirit before we can really help the man; or, if we sincerely aim to reach this man, the power of God will be present. In either case the aim is not the agent, but the man.

What the uppermost aim was in the minds of the disciples when they waited ten days, out of which they came forth a united band of disciples for Pentecost, I do not know. Their aims and purposes may have been as fact as one who has not been as factually sincere as are those of people today. Some sought comfort for their broken hearts, others assurance, forgiveness, the reorganization of the band of disciples, perpetuating the memory of their departed Lord, the promised Holy Ghost. They may have had everything before them that a body of Christians have today; but no matter what their varied and inconsistent aims were, God's aim for them was the redemption of the world as represented by this man, who from childhood had waited in ignorance. This man represented the object which was the aim Jesus had, for which he left the Father's bosom and came to earth, lived and died and rose again. For this same purpose he would give the Holy Spirit, hear united prayer, comfort broken hearts, quicken spiritual life, etc.

The Test of Methods.

The emphasized aim will put every agent and agency in its proper place and will test the value of all. If this man is not being lifted into new life, then we must examine the sincerity of our aim. In our enthusiasm for the multitudes abroad or the crowds at home, we must remember the crowds are made up of individuals and are reached through individuals. Your big mass meeting fails, your summer school fails, your foreign mission fails, your prayer fails, Pentecost fails, if it all we have not stretched out our hands in Christ's precious name and lifted up this man at the gate and caused him to walk with newness of life.

What is true in America is true to some degree throughout Christendom. Four hundred thousand Italians are at the gate, 850,000 Jews are at the gate, multitudes of other foreign-speaking people are at the gate and can be reached. God placed them there as he did this man to give us the proper Christian aim and test our sincerity of aim. They seek silver and gold, and if the Christian church has not something infinitely better to give or cannot give it, she has failed.

The man at your side is represented here. Your neighbor, your unsaved child, the Sunday school scholar—every helpless, powerless, nominal Christian, is still at the gate, even though he may be in the church.

If you are not aiming to help the other man you are at the gate yourself and must be lifted into new life. If you have new life, standing on your own feet, baptized with the Spirit, then prove it by helping this man. Don't draw your skirts about you. If you don't do something for him, Jesus will say: "You did it not to me." Nothing can be substituted, no matter how good, but all can be helped. Bend every effort and every prayer to this end. Put out your hand now to the one next to you in the name of Christ. Blessing him you will be blessed, helping him you will be helped, saving him you will be saved. Look upon him—be moved with compassion for him. Don't resist, don't try to get rid of him—aim, aim at him. Don't lose sight of him in your hurry to preach. Don't pass him; he is not worthless. He's valuable, and you are responsible for making him walk.

How the Man Was Healed

We come now to speak of the method. A special effort was made by the two disciples, but it was made as they were on the way to the regular service. One did not interfere with the other. It was a united effort. Peter and John. Peter was the preacher and John the layman. John may have said, "Peter, don't let your enthusiasm go wild over that poor beggar." He might have suggested a committee or a series of prayer meetings or a hospital for him, but Peter pushed his hand right down into that of the poor man and connected him with God. Every difficulty met with today in reaching a world that lies at the gate could have suggested itself to John. The church was so near by that some might have felt their responsibility was ended. If it was a matter of getting him to church, his friends could have carried him. But Peter and the Spirit of God in him knew it was best to save him at the gate, for if he got inside once as the supreme goal for their effort, he never would have walked. God's method is always to save men where they are, "at the gate," and man is at the gate until he is saved. This church is the place for saved people and it is his responsibility to go out to "the man at the gate."

The Saving Look.

Peter and John looked on him. This was more than an ordinary hasty glance and pass by on the other side. The same kind of a vision that Christ had when he looked on the multitudes and was moved with compassion possessed their hearts. They had the same spirit that moved Christ. The direction of all their efforts is indicated by this look. If the churches and Christians will once look unitedly, with the spirit of Christ, upon this man at the gate, it won't be long before they will be drawn to him as truly as to Christ himself. They will invite him, as Peter did this lame man, to look on them. The poor man is to get this first vision of God by looking on Peter and John. He may have read of God, possibly may have heard the name of Jesus, but never saw anything of the nature and character of God until he looked into the face of the Spirit-filled man. If our lives do not invite inspection then we must emphasize the aim and look on the man at the gate and feel our responsibility for him until we cry out for God's spirit and power and blessing until the man can see God in us. If the multitudes at our gate do not see God in us, where are they going to see him?

The agency employed consisted of Peter's hand and Christ's name. Here is the central secret of Pentecost and every advance movement of God: the human and the divine co-operating over a lost soul. These two halves of the one great eternal truth for the world's redemption must be kept in view and equally emphasized. Ever since Pentecost we have been swinging from one side to the other, rather than holding the two equally together. Some have been inclined to say to the worker today as men in the time of William Carey said to him, when he wanted to be a missionary, "If God wants to convert the heathen, he can do it without you." Nowadays, in our extreme desire to be practical, we almost say we don't need God. We will be honest, we will feed the hungry, relieve the oppressed, educate the ignorant. We would lift the man ourselves without God's aid.

Combination of Divine and Human. But carefully observe the combination. Here was Peter's hand, the human; Christ's name, the divine. Was Peter's hand essential? The man would have remained lying at the gate were it not for Peter's hand. Peter's hand would not have raised the man an inch toward permanent cure, were it not for Christ's name. The human hand and Christ's name must bend together over the lost. The proof of the measure of our faith in Christ's name is our readiness to stretch forth the hand. If I believe that Christ desires to save this man, then my poor but consecrated hand must co-operate in that purpose. Thus the practical test may be: lies not only in preaching and planning, getting ready and having united operation, resulting chiefly in simply extending our hands in the direction of the lost, but I must put my hand right down to the hand of the other man and expect him to rise. This is the crucial point in evangelism today.

Wherever this is being done in the name of Christ souls are rising into new life. Where we fall at this point we fall completely, and no amount of popular enthusiasm or strength of organization or attraction of song can be successfully substituted. It is comparatively easy to preach, especially with Pentecostal atmosphere; easy to organize and to suggest plans, and even to execute them. It is possible to go to the foreign field or travel up and down our home land and interest crowds; to build large seminaries and have the appearance of a great work; and possibly have a great work; but if the human consecrated hand is not actually in the hand of others, helping creatures at the gate in the name of Christ, we fall short of the mark and fail in results.

The Results Summed Up.

Now look at the result. What Peter and John by faith realized, the lame beggar experienced and the world observed, was that there is something better than silver and gold. The man received what no power on earth could give. He did not get new legs actually but practically, for he got new power to walk. He received what he never had before—he stood for the first time upon his own feet. He began to walk with another power all his own. He leaped with joy in the abundance of life given. He praised God, the source of every blessing, direct or indirect, and thus proved the genuineness of the work. He was not afraid or ashamed to acknowledge God, nor to appreciate the work of God's servant.

Second. He went into the temple on his own feet and legs and was not carried. He is where every convert must be. He is not over-persuaded. No danger of this man backsliding. He did not sign a card or simply lift his hand for prayer. The evidence he gave to the church and world was his new power, his personal testimony, his complete change of position from the outside as beggar to the inside as sinner. Instead of being a receiver, he is a giver.

Third. The church is revived. An experience like this is poor opportunity for debate. The people see it is a real thing which has been done before their eyes. They flock around in wonder and amazement. Such a stir had not been in the temple since Jesus cleansed it, or stood and cried: "If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink." There is nothing like an experience to stir people up. Revival is always created when a miracle is performed and never without it.

Fourth. Peter has an opportunity to preach another sermon equal to that of Pentecost. Both sermons are a defense of results which people did not understand. The occasion of the Pentecost sermon was a defense of results seen by the people with the disciples, but the occasion here is due to results seen with the poorest and most helpless object of divine grace. The result of the first sermon was 3,000 converts, but the result of this is to increase the number to 5,000. This led the disciples to prison, but there they only had a new congregation and opportunity to preach. It also proved that Peter and John were sufficiently interested in the man at the gate to risk their lives for him. The world has never suspected Peter and John of any other aim than to reach the man at the gate. The method had nothing in it but what any worker may use. The results were surely satisfactory to God, as they were a great advancement of God's kingdom.

Down in the human heart Crushed by the tempter. Feelings lie buried that grace can restore; Touched by a loving heart, Wakened by kindness, Chords that were broken will vibrate once more.

Do you believe this? If you do believe, then you are beginning to see what God has already seen. You are on God's side. His name is ready to be called on. It is your privilege to put your hand into that of the next man in Christ's name, and raise him to new life and power. The summer season is just coming; multitudes in parks, fields and streets are ready for the Christians to step aside from the beaten track on their way to the temple and by tents, open-air meetings, wagons, automobiles, personal and united effort, reach the man. No season of the year is more inviting. Now is the time to test every faculty and power and blessing God has given, and by the doing of it every blessing will be multiplied.

THE FOLLY OF FIGHTING GOD

ISRAEL ENSLAVED IN EGYPT.

Lesson Text—Exodus, 1:1-14. Golden Text—Psalm 107:13: "Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble and he saved them out of all their distresses."

(From the Christian Herald.)

Jacob and his sons, the father and the brothers of Joseph, numbered seventy persons besides their servants, when they came as famine refugees to reside in Egypt (verses 1-5). At the time of their leaving Egypt their number had swelled to over two million. The intervening period was 215 or 430 years. Let us waste no time on the immaterial controversy. The "chosen family," which had begun with two, Abraham and Sarah, had become two million in fulfillment of God's promise to Abraham that his seed should be as the stars in number, and as the sand upon the seashore.

Joseph had placed his father and brothers, on their arrival, in the best of the land, then called Goshen, now the Delta. Thus favored of man and chosen of God, what wonder that they became so prosperous a people that their presence was a matter of anxiety to the Egyptians? Their natural alertness and vigor made the Egyptians think of them as a foe to be dreaded, if not they should become. Joseph's services to Egypt were forgotten. The emperor of Egypt was still called Pharaoh, as the emperors of Russia are called Czars, but he belonged to a different family if not a different race from the Pharaoh of Joseph's time. This new Pharaoh was named Seti. His mummified body has recently been found and placed in a museum, as is that of his greater son, Rameses II.

Israel Oppressed.

Seti, the new ruler, sent forth an edict that a check should be put upon the Hebrews, as the descendants of Jacob had come to be called. The edict from the throne doomed the Hebrews to hard labor. It was probably after the throne passed from Seti to Rameses II. that this labor was devoted to building two store cities in which to place the king's army stores, Pithom and Rameses, the first of which has been uncovered in its ruins near the Suez canal. Each man was required to make a certain number of bricks a day, a large number, almost beyond the possibility of human labor to accomplish. Taskmasters were set over them. Egyptians of course, and they were charged to make the Hebrews "serve with rigor." The latter could not stop for a moment's rest but the lash of the taskmaster was upon their shoulders. Hard work, however, did not kill the Hebrews, because God was with them. "The more they were afflicted the more they multiplied and grew." Their growth became daily more of a problem to the king of Egypt. He increased their tasks. Bricks have been found in Egyptian ruins of this period made of baked clay and chopped straw, and there are also in the pictorial histories representations of slaves of Hebrew physiognomy, making bricks under Egyptian taskmasters.

Still the Hebrews were not depleted in numbers, and another vain edict went out from the throne that all the boys of the Hebrews should be killed as soon as born.

Illustration and Application.

Genesis, the Bible's introduction, has told us about the formation of the world, and now Exodus will describe the creation of the chosen nation, through whom religion was to be given to the world. We shall see Israel at school; first, in the preparatory school of Egyptian slavery, then in their "hush college" of the wilderness. In individual lives the coming out of bondage and through the wilderness into the Land of promise is a history that often repeats itself.

Small Beginnings Recalled.

"These are the names of the sons of Israel, which came into Egypt . . . seventy souls: . . . The children of Israel . . . increased abundantly" (verses 1-11). When Israel had come to be numbered by millions they gratefully recalled the three score and ten of the seed-basket that God brought from Canaan to Egypt, which was to go back multiplied many thousands. In like gratitude, the people of the United States recall how "God sifted all nations" to prepare seed great in quality though small in quantity, with which to build a nation whose mission should be to give an example of self-government to the world, as surely as Israel's mission was to give religion to the world. So in our individual lives we should gratefully recall from what humble beginning God has led us to wealth, or knowledge, or other large opportunities of service. In all our growth, while man plants and waters, God gives the increase by furnishing seed, and soil, and sun. There is never any ground for pride, but only for thanksgiving.

"There arose a new king over Egypt, who knew not Joseph." As Joseph in the last lesson acted as a providence to his brothers, and subjected them to a series of trials to test and develop their characters, so God, in the lesson now to be studied, puts their descendants through the theological school of affliction and deliverance, to prepare them to be the chosen nation through whom he would give the true religion to other nations. Apepi II, a foreign Pharaoh, one of the "shepherd kings" who therefore had no hesitancy in promoting Joseph, another foreigner, and in welcoming his father and brothers to the best of the land, had been displaced by the native dynasty of the Rameses, who "knew not Joseph," and feared that the Israelites living on their eastern border might aid the enemy whenever there should be another incursion of Hittites or some other "shepherds," as they called the vigorous rural tribes. They would not have feared the Israelites unless they had been oppressed. The preventive which Seti and Rameses II. proposed was not more justice, but more oppression.

A Losing Fight Against God.

"Come, let us deal wisely with them, lest they multiply" (verse 10). It was the exaggeration of a guilty conscience of a politician seeking excuse for oppression when Rameses II. said, "The Israelites are more and mightier than we," for the Egyptians were nearer eight million than the Israelites were to two million. Here is one of many instances where a foolish man has thought it "wise" to fight against God. Rameses II. thought he could diminish what God was multiplying. So Haman thought Nebuchadnezzar and Nero. But everywhere "the blood of the martyrs has proved the seed of the church." "If God be for us, who can be against us?" As the envy and greed of Joseph's brothers, and the very lies of Polipharus's wife were overruled to hasten Joseph's progress to high office, we shall see how the Israelites, who would no doubt have remained in Egypt if the prosperity they enjoyed in Joseph's time had continued, were driven like eaglets out of their nest by the afflictions that stirred them up to flight in the time of Moses. Thus their very sorrows hastened their departure in the Land of Promise, as sorrow has often turned men's steps toward heaven.

Some years ago an insane man in a New England town rose from his seat in the midst of a large assembly, and seizing one of the pillars that sustained the gallery of the church, declared aloud that he was going to pull it down. Had another Samson suddenly appeared and declared himself ready to bow between the pillars of another Dagon's temple, there could hardly have been a greater consternation. The people, amid the outcries shore far from home? We may as well lie down and die." Little did they know that God was creating a republic through their suffering and opening a land of liberty for the oppressed of all nations.

How often God allots to us the task of enduring, this is only! Oh the last time that we heard the late Dr. Fuller preach, he read the passage in Isaiah: "They shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint;" and then he added, "he put walking last because it is hardest." It is really much easier to run in the Lord's work than to walk. It is easier to be on the high horse, attending meetings every evening, and speaking to crowds and by sympathy, than it is to discharge patiently, without excitement, the prosaic, every-day duties of religion.

The Hebrews took the wise course for the oppressed at all times. They cried unto the Lord who is a refuge for the oppressed. The result was that justice, though delayed for their discipline, triumphed at last.

HE FOUGHT AT GETTYSBURG.

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., who lost a foot at Gettysburg, writes: "Electric Bitters have done me more good than any medicine I ever took. For several years I had stomach trouble, and paid out much money for medicine to little purpose, until I began taking Electric Bitters. I would not take $500 for what they have done for me." Grand tonic for the aged and for female weaknesses. Great alternative and body builder; sure cure for lame back and weak kidneys. Guaranteed by Dreier & Bro., drug gists, 50c.

A HARD DEBT TO PAY.

"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark, of Westfield, Iowa, "for my rescue from death by Dr. King's New Discovery. Both lungs were so seriously affected that death seemed imminent, when I commenced taking New Discovery. The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equaled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by Dreier & Bro., druggists, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Can't Miss It

So many ailments are purely nervous affections, that you can hardly miss it if you try Dr. Miles' Nerve. It restores nervous energy—and through its invigorating influence upon the nervous system, the organs are strengthened. The heart action is better; digestion improved, the sluggish condition overcome, and healthy activity re-established.

"Dr. Miles' Nerve is worth its weight in gold to me. I did not know what ailed me. I had a good physician but got no relief. I could not eat, sleep, work, sit or stand. I was nearly crazy. One day I picked up a paper and the first thing that met my eye was an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Nerve. I concluded to try it and let the doctor go, and I did so. After taking two bottles I could dress myself. Then I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and now I can work and go out, and have told many the benefit I have received from these remedies and several of them have been cured by it since I am fifty-nine years old and pretty good yet."

ANNA R. F. LAMER, Lewistown, Pa.

Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

The Economical Housekeeper

Has learned the lesson that unreliable house furnishings are dear at any price and that the best is cheapest in the end. Best with us means what it says, and best costs here what you would have to pay for scrub brushes that do not scrub, brooms that do not sweep, mops that lose their whisksers, and other things that wear their usefulness out in record time.
